LINK POLICE IN ATTEMPTED BANK ROBBERY

State Police Take 3 Prisoners In Pre-Dawn Gun Battle In Connecticut.

BOASTS THWART PLOT

Questioning Reveals Bandits Planned to 'Use' Officer at Dispatcher Microphone.

PUTNAM, Conn.—(INS)—A fantastic attempt to rob a Connecticut bank, in which police officers allegedly joined forces with the underworld, was foiled today in an exchange of gunfire and subsequent raids by state police that netted three prisoners, two of whom had sworn to uphold law and order.

Arrested and charged with attempting to rob the Cargill Trust company of Putnam were:

Ralph C. Brearley, 37, member of the board of aldermen and a police commissioner of Putnam.

State Trooper George Martin of the Danielson barracks.

Walter Ktzemien, a former resident of Putnam.

All three prisoners were taken to the Danielson barracks for questioning.

State Police Commissioner Edward J. Hickey personally led his men in capturing the asserted conspirators which followed a pre-dawn pistol battle outside the Cargill bank early this morning.

Developments that led to the raids, in which 20 state troopers participated, were so fictionlike that police at first gave little credence to the asserted plot.

The developments followed this sequence:

Last Friday four men were drinking in a Hartford tavern. They talked loudly, boastfully — but one of the quartet more boastfully than his friends. He spoke of a planned robbery in the nearby community of Putnam, mentioned the Cargill Trust company.

Police questioned the man, identified thus far only as "Smith," and although skeptical made a routine check-up of banks in Danielson, Moosup and Putnam.

Early yesterday, police said,

Historic Westminster, Blasted By Luftwaffe Bombs

Chapel of Henry VII, Westminster Abbey

Charred rubble lay deep today around Westminster Abbey, various views of which are shown above. Nazi bombs struck the famed abbey, most venerated spot in the British empire, Saturday night in the heavy reprisal raid which also hit the buildings of parliament. An incendiary bomb ignited the timbers of the roof of the Lantern, above the coronation altar. It was 140 feet above the floor and could not be reached with water from firemen's hose. The timbers burned out, crashed to the floor and made a covering of wreckage over the undamaged altar.

CONTROVERSY ON SEIZURE OF SHIPS GROWS

Restrictions Advised Against By Hull; Foes Call For Ban on Transfer.

LAND HITS 'STRINGS'

Hoover Says Convoys Would 'Catapult an Unprepared Nation Into War.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary Hull advised today against restrictions on the use of foreign ships that may be taken over by the government, but administration opponents renewed their demands that the pending ship requisition bill be altered to ban the outright transfer of seized Axis vessels to Britain.

Hull set forth his views in a letter made public by the senate commerce committee which is nearing the end of its study by the house-approved ship requisition measure.

"The department of state," he wrote, "feels it would be unwise to place a restriction or prohibitory provision in the proposed legislation."

Any restriction, Hull added, would tend to place vessels acquired under the legislation "in a different category from other vessels now under the American flag."

Testimony before a closed committee session last week, made public today by committeemen, showed Chairman Emory S. Land of the maritime commission also had urged "wide open legislation with no strings whatsoever."

Nevertheless, Senator Clark (D. Mo.), a committee member, said he would propose an amendment, previously defeated in the house, to prevent the administration from turning over German and Italian vessels to Great Britain.

Senator Vandenburg (R.-Mich.) said he would support the pending legislation if the Clark amendment were written in by the committee. He reiterated that it would be "completely provocative of

Planes Attack 40 Points In British Isles

Damage Reported Slight As Germans Attack Raid Bases; British Are Cheered By Foe Losses Despite Damage to Famed Buildings.

(By United Press)

LONDON—German night bombers, it was learned authoritatively today, carried out extensive attacks last night on a large number of Royal Air Force airdromes.

The Nazi attack, it was indicated, caused some damage but an authoritative source asserted that "except at one or two points the damage was not considerable."

The Germans attacked nearly 40 points throughout Britain during the night and the Nazi high command communique, as received here, asserted that most of these attacks were directed against air fields and other Royal Air Force installations.

"While a large number of RAF airdromes were attacked last night," said an authoritative source, "the enemy claims as usual are grossly exaggerated. Except at one or two points the damage was not considerable and the number of service casualties was not large, although these included some killed."

It seemed possible that the Nazi attacks upon RAF stations may have been inspired by the unusually heavy British air attacks upon Germany in the past few days.

The Luftwaffe, it was thought, may have been ordered to attack RAF airdromes in an attempt to cut the weight of the British air offensive against German cities.

Another theory advanced by some British quarters is that the attacks upon British airfields are designed to soften up the RAF in preparation for the ultimate Nazi invasion attempt.

According to this theory, the German air attack on Britain probably has been planned in three phases: First, the heavy attack on ports and industrial centers which has long been underway; second, the attack on RAF bases preparatory to a new attempt to win day air control; third, the final all-out invasion attempt.

Almost 40 areas of Britain were bombed, but there was no concentrated attack anywhere, and London was avoided. The Germans had lost 33 planes while blasting historic Westminster church and parliament buildings Saturday night. Londoners had believed this was the beginning of a bitter and sustained aerial siege, and most

BRITISH PLANES, MEN HIT IRAQI

Mosul Barracks Bombed, Oil Line Fort Occupied In Renewed Drive.

(By United Press)

CAIRO—British planes are striking at Iraqi troops in north and northeast Iraq while ground forces attack the fast weakening Iraq army in other areas, it was said officially today.

At least 12 hits were made in the Iraq army barracks in the great oil center of Mosul, it was announced.

Armored cars of the Royal Air Force occupied Fort Rutbah, on the oil pipe line in far western Iraq, yesterday, it was announced. Rutbah airdrome, nearby, had been occupied by British troops Friday.

It was learned semi-officially that the Iran government, rejecting an appeal by Premier Rashid Ali Al Gailani of Iraq for aid, had replied sharply that it disapproved of his policy in attacking British forces. Talib Mousta, former Iraq consul general at Jerusalem, was said to have gone to Tehran on a special mission in a vain attempt to win Iranian support for Rashid Ali.

In their raid on Mosul, British planes reported that they saw no

SEVEN SLIGHTLY INJURED IN AREA

Week-End Traffic Toll in State Nine, One of Smallest In Spring Touring Season.

Seven persons received minor injuries in Sunday traffic accidents in the Mansfield area while nine fatalities were recorded in the state.

The week-end toll was one of the smallest of the season despite the heavy travel on all main highways in the state yesterday.

Three Mansfield residents, returning from Newark last night, were injured when their car crashed into a utility pole in Fredericktown. The injured were Mr. and Mrs. John Marion and their daughter, Virginia. They were treated by a physician for cuts and bruises and brought home.

Three of nine colored CCC camp enrollees were riding in the same car were treated at Good Samaritan hospital in Ashland for injuries suffered in an accident on U. S. route 42, two and a half miles northeast of Ashland at 3 a. m. today.

The nine youths, all from Cleveland, were enroute to a camp near Chillicothe when their car crashed into a power line pole, breaking it

LIQUOR SALES 14 MILLIONS

COLUMBUS—(AP)—First quarter Ohio liquor sales total $14,795,966, a record for the state-controlled monopoly, Director Jacob B. Taylor reported. He estimated federal defense tax on liquor would yield about $5,000,000 this year in Ohio.

Girl Watches Brutal Killing of Suitor, 19

Police Hunt For Unidentified Man Who Dragged Youth From Car, Beat And Shot Him in Fight.

HAMILTON—(UP)—A brutal assailant who murdered a 19-year-old grocery clerk before the horrified eyes of the clerk's 16-year-old fiancee was sought today by police.

Elmer A. Willsey, 19, the clerk from nearby Millville, had just finished asking Miss Margaret Frybarger, 16, Hamilton, when would be an appropriate time to give her an engagement ring when he was pulled from their parked automobile, beaten and shot to death.

The hysterical girl, daughter of a die-maker in the Ford plant here, was unable to identify the mysterious killer.

Miss Frybarger said the assailant was "very, very drunk."

A few minutes after the shooting, a speeding automobile sideswiped another car on Springdale road near Cincinnati not far from Hamilton. The first car did not stop.

Willsey's attacker was described as about 30 years of age, five-feet nine inches tall and 160 pounds in weight.

The murder happened early yesterday on Brough avenue, just south of the Hamilton city limits and two blocks east of the Dixie highway, shortly after the young couple left a night club at 1 a. m.

Miss Frybarger said a passing auto, operated by an unidentified driver, nicked their car and then

Three Others Injured When Army Auto Rams Florist Truck.

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss.—(UP)—Two soldiers were killed, three others were injured and a civilian was bruised when an army automobile hit a New Orleans florist's truck seven miles west of here last night.

The dead were identified as Ernest Gray, 22, Milburn, W. Va., and Boyd Riddle, 22, Madison, W. Va.

The injured soldiers were Milton W. Goddard, 23, and Harold M. Taylor, 25, both of Charleston, W. Va., and Comer Angel, 23, Marting, W. Va. Goddard and Taylor, reported seriously injured, were taken to the Camp Shelby hospital after treatment here.

ANSWERS CITY'S 'SLOWNESS' CRY

WPA Says It Hasn't Men For Projects, Due to Private Employment Spurt.

WPA workers, annoyed at criticism by city officials of the slowness of projects in the city, today blamed the increase in private employment through defense activity rather than inefficient workers for constant delays.

Benjamin Rayburn, supervisor for city projects, announced that the supply of workers has dropped from more than 150 last year to approximately 60. Rayburn estimated that only about 35 of these men are working on average days.

Last week, City Engineer W. C. Statler said that unless the WPA workers could complete their work more rapidly that the city might have to hire its own men for the work. Statler said that four or five projects in the city were only partially completed and had been that way for the better part of a month.

Rayburn issued a schedule of workers assigned during last week to show why work was held up. Averages for the week show that 17 of the 35 men assigned to work were absent, leaving only 18 for

INDICT LUKENS

Grand Jurors Place Murder Charge Against Janitor.

AKRON —(INS)— The Summit county grand jury today indicted Albert B. Lukens, 58, on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the cremation slaying of Ruth Zwicker, 24-year-old music teacher.

Detective Inspector Verne Cross said that Lukens, janitor in the North Hills Methodist church, had confessed that he put Miss Zwicker's body in the church furnace last Easter Sunday morning, April 13, after she fell and struck her head on a piano bench while resisting his advances.

The grand jury also returned first degree manslaughter indictments against Policemen Jacob Yingling and Richard Coburn of the Akron police force in connection with the death of Walter Lamb, jr., 29, who was injured fatally in city jail by blows from a blackjack after he had been arrested on an intoxication charge.

DISSOLVES SUIT BY 'WATCHDOG'

Court Ends Injunction Tieing Up Legislators' Expenses.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Common Pleas Judge Robert P. Duncan today dissolved a temporary injunction and dismissed a suit brought by Arnett Harbage, state treasury "watchdog," to prevent state legislators from collecting expenses outside their $2,000 annual salaries.

Judge Duncan held constitutional a statute which provides weekly mileage fees for senators and representatives between Columbus and their homes during a legislative session.

ACTION HIT

Court Rules Bethlehem Steel Ignores Statutes.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The U. S. court of appeals today in a sweeping decision ruled that the Bethlehem Steel corporation has ignored federal statutes in backing company-dominated unions.

In a split decision, in which Justice Harold M. Stephens filed a 77-page dissent, the court upheld an order of the National Labor Relations board calling for termination of the employes' representation plan which had been in operation for more than 20 years.

While the appeals court had the case on its dockets, CIO unions called a strike at Bethlehem's Lackawanna, N. Y., plant over some of the basic issues set forth in today's decision.

FATHER JAILED

Accused of Abandoning Wife, Six Small Children.

Sought for several days on a charge of abandoning his wife and six small children, James W. Alexander, 31, of 810 Springmill street, was in the county jail today awaiting a hearing set for 9:30 a. m. Tuesday in probate court.

Alexander allegedly left his wife here and took the children to relatives in Shreve, then disappeared. The children were brought back to Mansfield and have been with the mother at the Salvation Army headquarters for the past week.

The children range in age from one to eight years. Mrs. Alexander is an expectant mother, juvenile authorities said.

Alexander, who was taken into custody Saturday night by Mansfield police, will be represented in court by Atty. Frank Culp.

He is continuing to show slight improvement, however.

Mansfielder Wins Office At State Junior C. Of C. Meet

Harry J. Hollingsworth, past president of the Mansfield Junior Association of Commerce, today was one of five new vice presidents of the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Hollingsworth, who headed the Mansfield organization last year, was elected yesterday at the state convention in Canton. Ten Mansfield J. A. C. delegates attended the session.

Francis H. Lang, East Liverpool attorney, was elected state president. Other vice presidents chosen were William Horr, Portsmouth; Carl F. Belkofer, Toledo; Stanley C. Lott, Cleveland, and John Wilson, Middletown.

Dr. M. D. Carter of Dayton was elected an alternate to the national board of directors. Approximately 600 delegates attended the meeting.

In the Mansfield delegation were Hollingsworth, Don Kirk-

Asserts There'll Be No Aluminum For Civilians

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — W. L. Batt, deputy director of the OPM productive division, said today that the armed forces will be using all available aluminum in 1942 and there will be none for civilian or even "indirect" military requirements.

Testifying before the senate committee investigating defense, Batt asserted that aircraft production has not been held up by lack of aluminum for "more than a week or two at a time."

"The suffering has been in the civilian field," he said.

Several OPM officials, it was learned meantime, believed that a 40 per cent reduction in automobile output—instead of 20 per cent—will be necessary in the new model year starting Aug 1 to conserve materials and facilities for defense.

Founder Of Ohio Journalism Hall Of Fame Succumbs At 83

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Dr. Osman Castle Hooper, professor emeritus of journalism at Ohio State university and founder of the Ohio Journalism Hall of Fame, was dead today at the age of 83.

He had been in poor health for many years. Death came late last night as he slept in the residence of a sister, Mrs. Anna B. Dolle.

"No man of his generation did as much for the upbuilding of Ohio journalism as Professor Hooper," was the tribute paid him by James E. Pollard, head of the journalism department at Ohio State university.

"It was typical of Osman C. Hooper that through all the years of his life he was doing things for others with never a thought for himself."

Although ill health forced his retirement from the university faculty in 1932, Dr. Hooper until his

NAZI BOMBERS PRESS ATTACK ON RAF FIELDS

Hit 40 Points in British Isles During Raid, Losses Held Light; Courage Up.

of them had bedded down in shelters before dark. There were three alarms but no bombs fell.

Wreckage lay deep around some of the empire's most hallowed shrines, particularly Westminster Abbey, where four years ago today King George and Queen Elizabeth were crowned in a gay and colorful ceremony, but Londoners found encouragement in the capitulation of German losses for the first 11 days of this month, including another seven planes shot down last night, and also in the fact that the full moon last night had seen the raids diminish.

The score for 11 days of May was: 98 raiders shot down by night fighters over Britain and eight over France, 23 shot down at nights by anti-aircraft guns and two brought down by the balloon barrage—a total of 131. Daylight losses were: 29 by fighters, six by anti-aircraft guns, one by unknown cause—a total of 36. The nightly score during May has been: One, six, 16, nine, nine, nine, 24, 14, three, 33, seven. The May losses compare with 15 night raiders shot down in January, 15 in February, 47 in March, 91 in April.

Spirits already were rising here, despite the fact that embers were still glowing from one of the worst air assaults of the entire war, and a heap of charred, wet timbers and rubble lay desecrating the most venerated spot in England—a 50-foot square in the very center of Westminster Abbey, where British kings and queens for 900 years, except Edward V, have been crowned.

The destruction of the house of commons debating hall, including such relics as the speaker's chair, dispatch boxes and the statues of famous statesmen; the damage to the house of lords vast Westminster hall, to Big Ben, the 12½-ton clock whose chimes were broadcast throughout the empire, and to other historical sites, had been accepted calmly by the public.

Most of the damage to the abbey was caused when the timbered roof the the Lantern, a tower in the center of the building, was ignited by an incendiary bomb. It was 140 feet above the abbey floor, out of reach of firemen's hoses, and it burned out and collapsed. Wreckage lay two feet deep before the altar, which was undamaged.

The house of commons debating hall was a mass of rubble surrounded by blackened walls. Big Ben, on the parliament building tower, still chimed the hours but the masonry above the blackened face was damaged and the apparatus which broadcast the chimes by radio was put out of commission.

The roof of the commons' members lobby, damaged in an earlier raid and shored up with elaborate scaffolding, was damaged by a bomb that crashed through the roof. The doors and windows were blown out.

RAF Batters at Nazi Sub Bases

LONDON — (UP) — The Royal Air Force, striking heavily for the second straight night at two of Germany's main submarine bases, started big fires in the shipyards and industrial areas of Hamburg and Bremen during the night, the air ministry said today.

"A heavy weight" of high explosive and incendiary bombs was dropped on Hamburg and Bremen, the ministry said, and attacks were made on a smaller scale on the German submarine and naval base at Emden and on Rotterdam, an important oil center. Coastal command planes attacked docks at Ijmuiden, Holland, the ministry said.

The raids were a contribution by the air force to the vital battle of the Atlantic, for at both ports Germany not only is basing submarines but is making more submarines to attack the ships which are bringing war materials from the United States.

It was the 70th raid on Hamburg and the 68th on Bremen—the two most frequently and most heavily bombed cities in Germany.

Admit Attacks on Coastal Cities

BERLIN — (INS) — "Several waves" of British bombers attacked northern German coastal towns during the night, the high command announced today, dropping incendiary and explosive bombs that damaged residential areas.

A communique said no military damage resulted from the R. A. F. attacks and added that five R. A. F. planes were shot down by night fighters and anti-aircraft batteries.

General, 9000 Troops Held Near Corinth

CORINTH, Greece, (by Courier to Berlin) — (Delayed) — (AP)—An Australian general, 300 British officers, and 9,560 troops from England, Australia, New Zealand and India are held prisoner here along with four Serbian generals, 382 officers, and 743 soldiers.

They are awaiting the round-up of other remnants of British troops on the Peloponnesus before being transported to Germany.

At their quarters in Greek barracks two miles from Corinth, they corroborated that a lack of RAF planes was the big factor in the British-Greek defeat.

Among the distinguished prisoners was Australian Brig. Gen. Parrington. Another captive was G. P. Farsoun of Haifa, leader of a Palestine contingent of 1,000 Jews and 550 Arabs.

One of the officers, commanding 800 men, said 400 were wiped out in their stand at Thermopylae.

Licking County Will Prosecute O.S.R. Fugitive

Clayton Amburgey, Mansfield reformatory inmate who escaped last August and was captured five days ago near Middletown, will be turned over to authorities in Licking county where he is wanted on burglary charges, Assistant Prosecutor Charles Freehafer said today.

Amburgey also is wanted by Richland county authorities for the theft of the car in which he escaped last summer. Licking county, however, requested that he be returned there to face the charge. The warrant for him here will be held as a detainer, Freehafer said.

Amburgey is being held in Clinton county, his home. He was serving a one-to-15 year term in the reformatory for a burglary at Blanchester, in Clinton county. The car he fled in last August belonged to Oliver Wurtz, Mansfield. It was recovered later near Utica.

CCC Quota Goes Begging in County

A combination of defense jobs, National Youth Administration projects, and the army has reduced enrollment of Richland county youths in CCC camps to the lowest mark since the camps were started, according to Mrs. Agatha Leonard, county enrollment officer, said today.

Mrs. Leonard said the county has sent no youths to camps for more than a month and she has ecived no enlistments so far for May.

She said applications for camp service will be received from 8 to 11 a. m. Wednesday and Thursday mornings at relief headquarters on Orange street.

"Most of the boys who used to go to CCC camps have jobs now or are on NYA projects," Mrs. Leonard said. Others in the upper age group have joined the army and navy, she added.

Youths from 17 to 23 are accepted in the camps. When applying at the relief office they must show their Social Security cards, birth certificates, and cards from the state employment office.

PARTLY IN TUNE

Mutual, ASCAP in Harmony; NBC, CBS Still in Discord.

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — The four-months music controversy between the nation's broadcasters and ASCAP has ended for the Mutual Broadcasting System but for NBC and CBS the discord lingers on.

Mutual agreed Sunday night to pay the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers 3 per cent of gross receipts for four years and 3½ per cent thereafter until Jan. 1, 1950, for the right to restore the society's 1,200,000 songs to the air.

The tunes will first be heard at 10 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

In the hospital were Lucius Jones, 17, treated for head lacerations; William Thurston, 19, who received head and back injuries, and Richard Kennedy, 18, shoulder injury and possible fracture of the collar bone.

Mrs. Charles Krichbaum, Crestline, R. D. 2, received head and face injuries early Sunday when two cars collided on West Fourth street in Mansfield. Mrs. Krichbaum was a passenger in a car operated by Mary L. Krichbaum of the same address. The other driver was Albert E. Legg, Crestline.

The condition of Norman Poth, 23, Mansfield, R. D. 3, and Blair Myers, 38, of 480 Newman street, injured Saturday night in a motorcycle crash on Fifth avenue near Grace street, was reported "fair" today by General hospital attaches. Most seriously injured was Poth who had a fractured left arm, fractured ribs, and internal injuries.

Among the Ohio traffic victims was Calvin Bishop, 27, killed near Lebanon. He was due to be inducted into the army today.

Death of a three-months-old child near Uhrichsville boosted the toll for the year in Tuscarawas county to 27, only one less than for all of 1940.

war" for a neutral to seize the ships of one belligerent and turn them over to another.

Resuming its hearings on the ship bill, the commerce committee today called for further testimony from Admiral Land, and some members were curious as to whether he would elaborate on his assertion last week that the government plans to use requisition vessels to carry war supplies to Britain through "black-out areas."

In this testimony, released by committee members, Land said that some of the seized vessels "may be chartered and used in the blackout area if they run under their own flag."

Hoover Hits Convoys, Cites Europe Change

NEW YORK — (AP) — Herbert Hoover says United States convoys would catapult an unprepared nation into immediate war and paradoxically result in curtailment of material aid to Britain.

Using the navy to guard war shipments to Britain, the former president said, would lead to a "dictatorship of our own, inevitable in total war" and to "post-war bankruptcy."

Breaking a six-month silence on what he called "the controversy on whether we should join the war," Hoover spoke last night over the red network of the National Broadcasting company.

In this sentence he summed up his convictions:

"That there be no misunderstanding, let me state at the outset that I support provision of the maximum tools of war to Britain; that I am convinced we can give this maximum during her next critical months only if we keep out of this war; that putting our navy into action is joining this war; that the whole European war situation is in transformation; that America is as yet unprepared even for adequate defense; that our people are not united."

To support these contentions he outlined three "hard facts," the first of which he termed "the transformation of the character of this war."

"No one," he said, "can deny the grim possibility that Hitler may take Suez, Iraq, North Africa and the Mediterranean. In any event Hitler can occupy all of continental Europe."

On this "transformation," he asserted that the British armies could not invade Hitler's Europe, nor could Hitler "with all the 6,000,000 men" he commands and his "superior air force" now cross the channel to England.

He added that to invade Hitler's Europe "would require us to prepare 5,000,000 men in addition to the British army" and that it would take 10 years to build 40,000,000 tons of shipping possibly needed to land troops quickly.

"And Hitler," he said, "could not start toward the United States without equal preparation.

Claims FDR 'Betrayer' If Nation Goes to War

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The claim that President Roosevelt will "go down in history as the greatest betrayer of American people if he does not keep his campaign promises to keep this country out of war," was left today with 6000 people who heard the contention made by J. Hamilton Fish, Republican congressman from New York.

Fish centered an attack on the president, his family, his cabinet and newspapers at a Mother's day rally sponsored by the greater Cleveland chapter of the America First committee.

"The president's son, Captain James Roosevelt, already has said enough to win a decoration from the king of England," Fish added.

Mrs. Kathleen Norris, famed author who shared the featured speaker's platform with Fish, urged mothers of the country to rise in protest against their sons being sent to any war of aggression.

stopped. The driver came over and asked:

"What do you mean parking without any lights?"

He then pulled open the door of the Willsey car and told Willsey to get out. As the young clerk was about to obey, Miss Frybarger grabbed him and said to stay in. The stranger then pulled Willsey out and struck him twice in the mouth apparently with a revolver which he displayed.

Willsey began to resist his assailant and in a few seconds, Miss Frybarger heard a shot. Willsey slumped to the highway.

The girl started to leave the car but the man warned her to stay there. He then re-entered his own machine and drove away.

Miss Frybarger tried to drag Willsey's body across the road to his car to take him to a hospital. She said he probably died before she got him to the car.

Elmer Conrad, another motorist, told police he saw the girl sitting on the bumper of the car. When she saw him, she waved her arms and Conrad called the sheriff's office and an ambulance.

Coroner Garrett J. Boone said Willsey was shot by a .38 caliber bullet which passed through his chest and lungs and lodged under the right arm.

Miss Frybarger said she and Willsey had been going together for a year and planned to get married.

LUCAS ALUMNI STAGE DANCE

Annual Affair Will Be Held May 24 At High School.

LUCAS — Plans to entertain more than 200 "old grads" and their friends at the annual Lucas high school alumni dinner-dance May 24, are being arranged, according to Basil Swain, president of the Lucas alumni organization.

Responses already received to invitations sent out by Miss Mary Jane Smith, alumni secretary, indicate the largest attendance in the history of the local organization.

Program details, which have not been announced, are being arranged by Ira Metcalf and Glenn Mowers. The banquet will be served by members of the Lucas Mothers' club.

death conducted the book section of the Columbus Sunday Dispatch. He was a former associate editor of the Dispatch.

Born in Alexandria, on April 10, 1858, he was graduated from Denison university in 1879, later serving as a trustee. He joined the journalism department at O. S. U. in 1918.

He was known affectionately to his associates as the "grand old man of Ohio journalism." A few years ago the rule that election to the journalism hall of fame can come no earlier than five years after death was waived to permit Dr. Hooper's name to be added to the roll.

Aside from founding the hall of fame, Dr. Hooper established The Ohio Newspaper, which he edited for many years, promoted the annual Ohio newspaper show, wrote and published at his own expense the only history of Ohio journalism, served for years as secretary of the Associated Ohio Dailies, taught for 14 years in the O. S. U. journalism school, and labored ceaselessly for closer cooperation of all Ohio newspapers.

His wife, Josephine Babbitt Hooper, died several years ago. Survivors in addition to Mrs. Dolle are a son, Richard B. Hooper, Detroit, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah McNeil, Long Island, N. Y.

CHURCH GROUPS FETE MOTHERS

Lucas, Pleasant Valley, and Mt. Zion Hold Sunday Tea Affairs.

LUCAS—In two Sunday afternoon teas the mothers of three Lucas community churches were appropriately showered with Mother's day tributes and recognition

An address by Mrs. Elizabeth Wappner of Mansfield featured the tea time program given in St. Paul's church parlors for the mothers and daughters of the Lucas and Pleasant Valley Lutheran churches.

A similar affair was held in the Mt. Zion church parlors, east of Lucas, for mothers and daughters of that community, with Mrs. Gertrude McMichael of Lucas as the guest speaker for the occasion.

The daughters' tribute to mothers was given by Norma Jean Stotts, while Mrs. Lena McCready delivered the response in behalf of the mothers.

Musical numbers during the tea program at Mt. Zion included a piano solo by Norma Jean Ruth, and vocal solos by Miss Miriam Culler and Miriam Stacy. Readings were given by Betty Culler, Mae Miller, Mrs. Robert Lomax and Mrs Esther Mowry.

The tribute to mothers was given by Mrs. Dorothy Culler while Mrs. Emery Culler responded with the toast to the daughters.

HE COULD HARDLY GET OUT OF BED

"I had been in agony from sore, stiff muscles in my arms back, and limbs due to need of a mild diuretic to my kidneys and constipation, and had tried different things, but got more results by taking Vendol than any others tried," says Mr. John W. Maley, well known resident of Springfield, Ohio.

"When I am constipated I sometimes feel that I have a pain in every muscle of my body and can hardly get out of bed or raise my arm above my head, until I rub myself well.

"If I go right to taking Vendol and get the grand temporary relief from constipation it gives me, then all the symptoms of sore, aching muscles disappear. I think Vendol the finest medicine I ever took and advise everyone to try it too."

If Vendol did so much for this citizen right here among us, don't you think it should do the same for you? Get Vendol today from your nearest druggist. Recommended by Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and Fourth Sts

"I Talked with God"

(Yes, I Did—Actually and Literally)

and as a result of that little talk with God some ten years ago, a strange Power came into my life. After 42 years of horrible, sickening, dismal failure and despair, everything took on a brighter hue. It's fascinating to talk with God, and it can be done very easily once you learn how. And when you do, well, there will come into your life the same dynamic Power which came into mine: The shackles of defeat which had bound me for years went a-shimmering — and now—well—I own control of the largest circulating daily newspaper in my county, I own the largest office building in my city, I own my own home which has a lovely pipe-organ in it, and my family are abundantly provided for after I'm gone And all this has been made possible because one day, ten years ago, I talked with God Actually and literally talked with God.

You, too, may experience that strange Power which comes from talking with God, and when you do, if there is poverty, unrest, unhappiness, ill-health or despair in your life, well—this same God-Power is able to do for you what it did for me. No matter how useless or helpless your life seems to be—all this can be changed. For this is not a human power I'm talking about—it's a God-Power, and, of course, there can be no limitations to the God-Power, can there? Would you like to know how you too may talk with God? Would you like to know how this Power may come into your life as it came into mine? Then write a letter or post-card to Dr. Frank B Robinson, Dept. 760, Moscow, Idaho, and full particulars of this Teaching will be sent you free of charge. But write now—while you are in the mood. It only costs one cent to find out, and this might easily be the best one cent you have ever spent. It may sound unbelievable — but it's true or I wouldn't tell you it was. Advt. It may also be hoped that the demand for metal will be sufficient to bring a clean-up of roadside auto junk yards.

Awaiting final action on proposed tax increases, further steps toward doing away with poor houses are being deferred.

There are plenty of matters to be weighed and considered in our national policies today, but the possible objections of dictators are not among them.

Convoys Essential To 'Aid' Program

THIS week will likely bring to a climax the much discussed and highly controversial question of convoying shipments of munitions and other supplies to Great Britain.

The points of difference in opinion on this subject appear to rest largely on individual views as to whether or not the United States should aid Britain in the present struggle against the Axis powers.

If there is to be effective aid, in accordance with already adopted policies of this government, the safeguarding of war materials en route to England or elsewhere, is an inescapable part of the procedure.

It would be a ridiculous waste of time, effort and money to manufacture war supplies in this country, or to accumulate food shipments, only to have them sunk while on their way to a place where they are badly needed.

Expression of views by Secretaries Hull, Stimson and Knox points clearly toward determination to protect ships carrying supplies from the United States to Britain and a statement of similar attitude is expected within a few days from President Roosevelt, who has heretofore placed himself on the side of "all out" aid.

Meanwhile, in spite of the heavy toll of sinkings, Great Britain is showing increasing strength in the air and the greater power that can be attained by more help from the United States may mark a turning point which would end hostilities in a shorter time than has been anticipated.

Unrest in conquered countries has also been increasing in recent weeks, according to apparently reliable reports being received, and it needs only the encouragement that will result from a display of British strength, supplemented by American aid, to bring about more determined resistance of the Axis rule that has been imposed on heretofore free people.

Saving To Pay Income Tax

SOME IDEA of the extent to which defense costs may disturb routine is seen in the proposal to encourage people to save money through the preceding year so as to have it ready to pay their income tax in March.

The plan, as endorsed by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, is to issue special tax stamps, similar to the new savings stamps, to be bought in weekly or monthly installments and used in lieu of money in payment of income tax.

While it might seem that any form of systematic savings would serve the same purpose, this plan would give the government immediate access to money that would not otherwise be available until after next March 15—thus being an advance payment, which reverses the installment system to which millions of Americans have become accustomed.

Contemplation of the potentialities of such a drastic change from custom is interesting—it might even lead some people to save the money to pay for things before they buy them.

Vacations Are What You Make Them

PROCLAIMING the week following May 10 as "National Hobo Week," Jeff Davis, hobo king, urges his fellow Americans to hang a "gone roving" sign on the door and start out for a long ramble. He asserts it would do us all good to get into old clothes, rub elbows and swap talk with strangers, and wander through the spring landscape.

The thought is so appealing that, for a moment, it may seem practicable. But, on second thought, there are some things that must be done—and they can't be done by submission to the almost universal gypsy instinct.

Then again, however, as spring advances and finally merges into summer, why not compromise between the extremes of too much work and too much leisure to the extent of getting out of doors as much as possible?

It was once wisely said by a physician, speaking to members of his profession, "You can do a year's work in ten months—but you can't do it in twelve months"—meaning, of course, that a restful vacation is vitally essential to long continuance of good work.

A "vacation" is no more than a period of freedom from ordinary duties. It may be either long or short. Week-ends, holidays—and any available spare time given to change from routine—serves the purpose of vacations.

A vacation helps the mind to think more clearly and the hands to work more accurately and speedily. The man who is inclined to boast that he hasn't had time for a vacation in five—or possibly ten—years, is to be pitied for his lack of judgment rather than admired for zealous application to his work.

Hospital Day Observance

TODAY is being observed over the country as National Hospital day, with emphasis placed on giving the public a better understanding of facilities provided by hospitals and the indispensable service which these institutions perform in protecting their communities against disease and in rendering live-saving aid to victims of accidents.

Due to improvements now in progress at Mansfield General hospital local observance of Hospital day will be deferred until next month, when a date will be announced on which visitors will be invited to inspect the hospital.

As an institution made possible by liberal contributions of Mansfield citizens almost a quarter of a century ago and as a participant in the Community Fund budget, General hospital holds a high place in public interest and its growth to meet increasing hospitalization needs of this community is gratifying to all of those who inspired its beginning and who have watched its progress through the years.

A bed has been invented which duplicates the sleep-inducing roll of a ship—and a phonograph record might also be made available to provide sound effects.

Now there's talk of "dusting off" the St. Lawrence seaway project—which so many people thought was all wet.

Few Object to High Defense Taxes

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—One of the most curious factors in popular opinion at the moment, if one may take mail to congressmen as a fair indication of it, is the failure of the isolationist group—Burton, Wheeler, Gerald Nye, Charles A. Lindbergh, et al.—to rouse sentiment against paying taxes, a substantial part of which will be used for aid to Britain—in short, for war.

Most congressmen report that they actually have more mail from patriots willing to pay increased taxes than from constituents kicking because the burden is going to be so heavy.

NOW it may be said that most of the people do not yet realize how heavy the tax burden is going to be. It might also be said that the isolationist group has not made any attempt in their speeches and statements to connect heavy taxation with involvement in war. In fact, Mr. Lindbergh, in particular, has always urged heavier spending for national defense, but even he has not made any headlines by insisting that the new taxes need not be so oppressive if we contented ourselves with building up our own defenses, and did not spend money also on supplies to be sent to Britain.

L and when Lindbergh, Wheeler and Nye take that stand then will be the time that phase can be judged. So far there has been no direct appeal to the letter writing public to express itself. It might also be pointed out that a great many people who do understand what the tax schedules are going to do to them, talk plenty but do not write—that it is not the average person who sits down and writes a letter to his congressman, but a group that is in fact a very small minority.

This is absolutely true, but the fact is also true that this minority, cranks if they be, is very potent in this country and always has been. For right or wrong congressmen take a certain part of the cross section from these letters written admittedly by a minority which enables them to conclude the public opinion.

CONGRESSMEN have other ways, of course, of getting a slant on what their constituents think. They pay some attention to the editorials in their local newspapers, which they are able to discount as to slant and interests with surprising accuracy in most cases. For example the fact that editorials in the New York Times, and the New York Herald Tribune, two of the world's outstanding newspapers, both advocated the election of Wendell Willkie last year did not disturb in the slightest the congressmen from Greater New York who happened to be supporting Roosevelt.

Congressmen do pay a great deal more attention to letters from certain trusted friends and lieutenants than to any amount of mail from unknown constituents. They also keep in pretty close touch with some of their friends who visit Washington occasionally.

But it is a fact, nevertheless, that even chain letters and letters resulting from public appeals by people in whom the individual congressmen may have no confidence, do have considerable effect.

So it is important that so far, on the eve of consideration of the tax bill, the opponents of aid to Britain have not been able to bring any pressure to bear through this channel against the tax boosts.

Old Corner Druggist Is Passing Clan.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WITHIN the past few years our literature has begun to notice the figures in American life who have been so familiar as hardly to attract the attention of the literary world. There was Dr. Hertzler's Horse and Buggy Doctor, followed by Country Editor, Country Parson, Hoss Doctor, and now we have Robert B. Nixon, jr.'s account of his father, called Corner Druggist (Prentice-Hall, Inc., publishers, New York, 1941.)

The corner drug store still exists and I suppose there must be some good reason why corners are selected, although I am not so sure I understand it, but the corner druggist, in the old sense of the word, is largely disappearing. He was the neighborhood druggist, just as the doctor was the neighborhood doctor and the minister was the neighborhood minister. His position, as Mr. Nixon says, was at once the most obscure and the most important in his community. He performed the greatest service for the lowest pay.

Apprentice at Seventeen.

The corner druggist here described, began his apprenticeship when he was 17 years old. He lived over the drug store. He was available day and night. He did a good deal of medical practice in the way of prescribing for common ailments. So far as I can see, he did it pretty well. He took care of a great many illnesses at a cost which the patient could afford to pay and filled a place in the practice of medicine which I am not sure was supplied by the regular medical profession.

The Public Relations Counsels of the various druggists associations tell me that this practice is dying out but I am not so sure but what it is a good practice. Your baker now sells you vitamins, why shouldn't your druggist sell you simple herbs?

"The old-fashioned neighborhood drugstore was an institution unique in American life. . . .

Neighborhood Accommodation.

"The corner drugstore was an accommodation center much like the modern filling station. People come there to use the telephones or the rest rooms, to get free maps and free information, and occasionally to buy. So it was with the drugstore. Father said that loafers bought cigars in other places and came there to smoke them; that they bought drugs somewhere else and came there to be entertained. People dropped in for the weather report, to look at the thermometer, to buy two-cent stamps, to have specks taken out of their eyes. . . .

"Father, like most old-time pharmacists, cursed the people who came to talk instead of to buy, but he would have been lost without the gossip and bustle around him. Because he was on duty eighteen hours a day, he had no opportunity for any other social life. The familiar story was of the pharmacist and his friend . . . who were playing checkers. . . . The latter whispered, 'Doc, a customer just came into the store.'

"'Yes, I know. Keep still. Maybe he'll go out again.'

Long Hours for Low Pay.

The average neighborhood druggist has a hard time keeping his head above water, or staying a few steps ahead of the sheriff. . . .

"Suppose a druggist fills six prescriptions a day at sixty or even seventy-five cents. Let us say it is all profit. That makes $3.60 or $4.50. Let us say his average daily business is thirty dollars. That is a very fair average. His profits cannot possibly be over one-third of his gross receipts. That gives him ten dollars. He must pay store rent, light, heat, and a relief clerk, and usually he has a boy to help him."

Hull and Jones Oppose Pressure To Freeze Axis Deposits In U. S.

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One of the most vigorous inner cabinet debates in a long time took place the other day over the question of freezing German-Italian funds on deposit in the United States. In a heated discussion, Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones were the only cabinet members who stood out for letting the two Axis powers continue to spend money as they wished in this country.

Many people may not realize it, but whereas the government has frozen the funds of all the conquered nations—France, Norway, Denmark, Belgium, Holland, Greece, etc.—it continues to permit the conquering nations to use their money in the U. S. A. in any manner they wish.

For instance, Germany gets more than a million dollars monthly from the lease of patents to American companies. This is paid in American dollars and can be spent for anti-American propaganda or anything else, or shipped back to Germany. Italian diplomatic attaches, for instance, were found carrying $2,000,000 in U. S. currency in a suitcase from New Orleans to Mexico for propaganda purposes. Another $2,000,000 of U. S. currency was shipped to Buenos Aires by the Italian embassy.

Meanwhile, France, for example, no longer sells perfume, etc., to the United States, but sells to Germany, which in turn ships the perfume through Vladivostok to the United States. Reason is that French funds are frozen, so the French can get no money from the U. S. A. But German funds are not frozen, so French trade to the United States now increases Nazi profits and helps build up trade channels for the future.

Hot Cabinet Split.

ALL this came to a head at cabinet meeting last week. Five members were vigorous in urging that Axis funds be frozen. They were:

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Attorney General Jackson, Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

They argued that it was useless and silly for the United States to give all-out aid to Britain, then turn around and help subsidize Nazi and Fascist propaganda here. The two things didn't make sense.

However, Cordell Hull and Jesse Jones opposed. Other members took no firm stand one way or the other, but appeared to favor freezing the funds. At one time Roosevelt, in a private conversation with Hull, almost brought him around to freezing, but in the end he backed away.

Career Boys For It.

MOST of Secretary Hull's state department advisers — even many of the Career Boys—also have urged him to freeze German and Italian funds. For three months, Dean Acheson, new assistant secretary of state, has been endeavoring to persuade him—without success.

Acheson was appointed to his job partly because he and Hull were congenial. But that has made no difference. Hull remains adamant.

In the inner cabinet meetings, Secretary Hull gives the following reasons for opposing his cabinet colleagues and the president:

1. Freezing Axis funds would give Germany an excuse to retaliate against American property in Germany. (Other side contends that Germany will do what she wants with American property anyway, and that Germany has more property to lose in the U.S.A. than we have in Germany)
2. There is not much real Axis money in American banks, most of it having been secreted long ago in strong boxes and bureau drawers.
3. There is no definite evidence that Germany is using funds for propaganda or subversive activities in the U.S.A.

Regarding the latter point, Attorney General Jackson contends that the financial transactions of German companies in the U.S.A. should have been registered and checked long ago. This can be done under the laws for freezing funds. He especially contends that the financial activities of the German-American board of trade in New York should be registered (this is the organization which paid the late Senator Lundeen handsomely for an after-dinner speech).

However, Hull contends that there is no proof regarding these German activities; so there the matter stands.

Mountaineer Pique.

INSIDE FACT is that Hull's opposition goes back a long way to a rivalry with Morgenthau and Ickes. When the question of freezing Axis funds first came up more than a year ago, it was proposed that the treasury take over not only this matter, but also various other state department functions, such as control of munition shipments.

Mr. Hull became extremely indignant. He told assistants that the treasury was trying to take over the state department's duties. And he has been suspicious of every treasury proposal ever since.

Likewise Hull never forgave Ickes for refusing to sell helium gas to Germany for the Graf Zeppelin. About that time, Ickes called the turn on Hull for selling arms to Germany up until the outbreak of the war—despite the treaty of 1920 which prohibits the sale of arms to Germany.

Lindbergh and Willkie.

TWO very interesting episodes occurred during the house of representatives debate on the bill empowering the president to take over idle foreign merchant ships in U. S. harbors. They gave a unique slant on Lindbergh and Willkie.

First episode was during the speech of scrappy Representative Luther Johnson of Texas, who assailed Lindbergh as an appeaser. At mention of Lindbergh's name the Republican side of congress broke into loud applause. Democratic side remained silent.

Quick as a flash, Johnson shouted: "I want the Record to show that this applause came from the Republican side."

The Republican answer was a louder burst of applause.

A little later Representative John McCormack, Democratic floor leader, lauded Wendell Willkie as a "man who has shown himself to be an outstanding American." The entire Democratic side broke into enthusiastic applause.

But not a hand was clapped by a single Republican, not even by Representative Joe Martin, GOP floor leader and manager of Mr. Willkie's campaign.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — It may be nothing for Joe Doaks to get jubilant about, but his income tax burden at its prospective worst next year will be light compared to that of the English taxpayer's, though it should be recalled that the Englishman's additional taxes are fewer than the American's and that the per capita tax in England is lower.

Under Mr. Morgenthau's proposals for increased levies in 1941 incomes (payable in 1942), the $2,500 net income married man without children would pay almost seven times as much as he does now. His present tax is $11; the treasury's proposed rates would boost it to $72.

The English Joe Doaks in the same category, however, will contribute $586, or eight times as much as the treasury would have the $2,500 American donate for rising defense costs. Moreover, congressmen, familiar with the unpopularity of tax increases, may soften the blow somewhat.

However, the U. S. tax bill next year will be pretty terrific. Proposed increases in federal levies are figured to lift the total, including state and local, $22,000,000,000 next year compared to about $7,389,000,000 in payments by the English.

On a per capita basis that would represent $167 for every man, woman and child in the United States compared with $160 for every person in the United Kingdom.

Taxes, however, are not paid on a per capita basis. Experts here say the so-called per capita payment is not a real gauge of the pinch on the taxpayers. The simplest way to measure that pinch, say the experts, is the comparative rates of taxation on persons in given income brackets, or the proportion of total tax levies to the taxpayers' income.

Per capita tax collections run higher in the U. S. than in England because there are many more people in this country with larger taxable incomes. This is particularly true in the $2,000 to $10,000 and even up to the $50,000 income brackets.

Little Income Hit Hard

THE little income fellow is hit particularly hard in England. Over there the childless married man with a net income of $1,000 will pay a tax of $66 under the new war rates. If he earns $1,500, his tax will be $232. The married man in this country with $1,000 or $1,500 net income wouldn't have to pay any federal income tax, since the new plans retain the personal exemption of $2,000 for the head of a family.

The personal exemption for a married person in England is $560, while that of a single person is $320 compared with $800 for the bachelor in the United States. The British surtax reaches a maximum rate of 98½ per cent, while our top surtax as proposed by the treasury would be 75 per cent on all incomes over $5,000,000.

We have been under the impression that the Englishman didn't have to worry about the "nidden" tax bugaboo. However, his excise and sales tax rates are considerably higher than ours.

As High As 24 Per Cent

THE English purchase tax—similar to a sales tax — is at a rate of 33⅓ per cent on the wholesale price (about 24 per cent of the retail price) of such luxury goods as jewelry, toilet preparations, articles of real silk and furniture. The proposed U. S. excise tax on jewelry, musical instruments and radios is 10 per cent of the retail price.

The English purchase tax on goods in common use, such as clothing, shoes, pots and pans, is about 12 per cent of the retail price. Such necessities as food, gas, coal, and medicine are exempt. Some of our states have sales taxes on almost all commodities including food, but the maximum rate is about 2 per cent.

For the privilege of enjoying a spot of liquor the bomb-harassed English Joe Doaks has to pay his government a pretty penny. The tax on distilled spirits over there is $14 a gallon compared with a present $3 and a proposed $4 a gallon here.

John Bull's tax on cigarets is 20 cents a pack of 20, compared with a present federal 6½ cents and proposed 8 cents a pack in this country.

Use for Straw Mow

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MEASLES for five — four of them all at once—brought us a new appreciation of our strawmow. When three of our four downstairs rooms were needed to hospitalize our children, and speckled flushed faces peeped around every door, there was need of some bit of quiet living space.

Our barn is old. Both mows are half full, or more, of clean wheat straw. Here, long ago, I discovered, high on top of the heap a flat, clear space beneath the eaves where a man may stretch—or even hide—and have full privacy.

The oldest child, our girl, took measles first. When she had nearly finished, all four boys began. Every night was far too turbulent for sleep for their mother and me. Convalescing, the baby had cramps. He cried and, still too young to talk, gave evidence of colic. I hastened to the village at midnight to rout out the drugstore proprietor, a friend of mine, and purchase one of those red rubber combination syringes—ours was worn out.

My friend, I found, was at city hospital where his wife was having a baby. (Poor fellow, I thought, his troubles are just beginning—how handy it would be to own a drugstore!) But people are kind. At the pool hall I learned where to find the clerk and he obligingly opened up and got me what I wanted. I hurried home, my wife used an enema to relieve the tot and by 1 o'clock the baby was fast asleep. Next day, when mother, herself, sadly needed rest, older sister took charge and once more the strawmow became a haven.

"I took a heavy blanket," she said, "to keep the prickles off, wrapped in it and burrowed under. It was heavenly cool and quiet. It rained and a breeze blew through the cracks. Down below the hens were singing. I slept two hours before they had to wake me, and felt like a new person."

Measles is rampant in our county at this time. It is the old-fashioned kind and takes from ten to fourteen days to run its course. We are not through with it. The quarantine card is up and the family's dispositions will be disrupted for some time. But quarrelsome feelings and convalescent blues are a natural aftermath.

Thank heaven, we have a strawmow!

CHAPTER XVI

"Then I'll see you soon," he hurried on. "Within a couple of weeks at the latest—I hope."

"That will be nice," she said, trying to be coolly indifferent. "Your—your trip will no doubt be an agreeable change."

"Agreeable? I'd hardly call it that. There are complications sometimes—when you have to make the law see things your way."

Raye's eyes widened. Her breath quickened painfully.

"Law?" she queried stiffly. "You're—you're not mixed up with—with that, are you?"

She cupped an ear close to the receiver to catch every intonation of his reply.

But she need not have bothered. It came out plainly enough.

"The law and I have to get together—and mull over a lot of things, Raye. That's all I can explain now. You might hold a good thought for me—it would help."

"Yes—if—if anything—can help," she breathed out tonelessly and slowly hung up.

She sat rigidly staring into space. A ghastly sinking feeling was firmly clutching her.

Bill Anderson—he was in bad—with the law!

He had expressed no sympathy for her, nor had he said whether he believed or disbelieved what the newspapers had insinuated. He was only concerned about—himself.

Was he running away from something? If so—what?

She had a sudden foolish impulse to rush to Bill Anderson and force him to explain what had entangled him with the law. But the next instant she voted it an unwise move.

If he were trying to run from guilt, how could she help him? Anyway—why should she want to help him? At any rate, if he had any connection with the Hal Bedford affair, it would eventually come to light. She had better keep quiet.

After talking over the telephone with Bill Anderson, nothing seemed right to Raye. For some ridiculous reason, she felt even more dejected than ever.

But she had little time to get at the bottom of this, or to consider seriously her reactions toward this unusual gas-station attendant, because the following Monday she began to work in Rex Maine's modernistic, beautifully appointed office. Rex was very artistic and the glass brick walls and startingly-patterned linoleum in his suite of circular rooms had inspired him. The furnishings he had selected revolved around a nautical scheme, which at unexpected moments made Raye feel that she must go up on deck and watch a rolling, foaming blue expanse of ocean such as she remembered seeing in her happier days. And how some of her marvelous ocean trips had bored her! Would she ever again be so unappreciative of good fortune?

She was in and out of the office at such unusual times that it was like no job at all. She did exactly as she pleased. When she was not in classes in a nearby business college, she sat in Rex's outer office and really did practice on the shiny new typewriter. But so far as accomplishing anything of value for Rex, it was a joke.

Now and then, to be sure, he did ask her to come in to his private room and would dictate letters. These she laboriously set down in long hand and always found later that her sentences scarcely made sense.

Rex, however, was extremely patient over her mistakes, as any man so much in love naturally would be. And her extreme nervousness over the shooting of Hal caused Rex to disregard his promise and propose to her again. He said that the only thing to do was plainly evident. Raye should marry him at once, let him take care of her and protect her in the Hal Bedford case, if it ever came to trial.

"You're precious, Rex," she told him, her blue eyes dewy. "With all the scandal, suspicons even, hanging over my head, you'd marry me. Honestly, I'm sorry I can't love you—but you're too fine a man to have a wife who doesn't love you. So—I must say no again, Rex. But I could nearly weep over you."

He sighed and ran unsteady fingers through his shock of bronze-red hair. Then he leaned back in his swivel chair — the boat-shaped desk was between them—and his generous mouth broke into a wide cheery smile.

"Don't worry, sweetheart. Even if I never get you, it's swell having you around now. And as long as no other man shows up—single man, I mean . . ."

"You're thinking of Hal? That was foolish of me, I'll admit. He and Ruthie are reconciled now—and I'm happy about the whole thing—believe it or not! Ruthie flew in last week, took the twins to the hospital — and Dr. Holbrooks says the sight of his family did wonders for Hal — and he'll get well."

"Thank God for that!"

Then Rex added, "You're wise, Raye. I knew you'd eventually wake up. Ruthie knows exactly how to deal with Hal."

"Yes I believe she does—although I didn't used to think so."

"Love blinds us to a whale of a lot of things," Rex offered pointedly.

"Yes—love and infatuation both do."

"Have the police any clews? I never could figure out why anyone should take a shot at Hal?"

"It's—it's beyond me, too. There must have been a motive. Possibly, I could point out the—person who did it—if I were urged—although I saw no one that night." She was thinking of Bill Anderson. Had he really run away—from something?

"Have you told the police? It might clear up everything, Raye. I'm—I'm concerned about you, dear—want you to get out of a bad mess."

She laughed mirthlessly, straightened the white lace cuff on the sleeve of her simple black frock.

She began making senseless pencil marks on her stenographer's pad, her heart pounding with fear. Oh, if only the real culprit could be found! If only this bitter suspense would end! But even now that Hal was recovering, he did not seem able to throw any light on the matter.

"The police will neevr give up, Raye. They'll finally pin the shooting on the most likely person—the one they know was near the scene at the time of the shooting."

"You're a dear to worry about me," she told him airily, while inwardly quaking.

She knew he had spoken the truth. And Bill Anderson—he had left town! She did not know where to locate him if anything serious developed — perhaps no one else did either, for that matter. Besides, it would be cruel to saddle an innocent man with such a charge—in case he were innocent.

Within a week, however, Raye was treated to a startling surprise.

She was trying to erase mistakes in the letter she had just written on Rex Maine's typewriter, when in walked Bill Anderson. He was looking confident and clean and trustworthy, quite different from her mental picture of a man outside the law.

"Why, Bill Anderson!" impulsively she sprang from her chair.

He advanced unsmilingly and warmly shook her outstretched hand.

"Raye, I'm so sorry I didn't know about your—your trouble until after I'd left town. I tried to write you—but I couldn't make a go of putting on paper what I wanted to say. I came back as soon as I could."

"Could you — could you have helped me?" she asked directly.

He dropped into the chair beside the desk. He said, looking over her head, "I might have done something. How do matters stand now?"

She shuddered a little. She felt as if she and this man were standing on the edge of a dark precipice and she had an almost irrepressible impulse to snatch him from all danger. Instead, she thought, it was her duty to shove him into it.

Yet why should she connect him with the shooting of Hal? Now that Bill Anderson were here looking so manly, so perfectly honest, it gave her a sinking feeling to think of him and crime as in any way related.

"The police haven't a clew that I know of," she said, painfully slow.

"Not so good," remarked Bill thoughtfully.

He was silent for a moment, then said, "Oh, well—suppose we forget the whole nightmare — go after some lunch."

She hesitated an instant, then surprised herself by saying eagerly, "I'd like to—there's a splendid restaurant downstairs in this building."

"To near! Can't you get off for the afternoon?"

Rex, entering the office, answered for her.

"Yes, certainly she can! Take her out in the sunshine, Bill. It will be good for her."

Raye's blue eyes were unnaturally big in her chalk-white face.

She rose, saying in a low voice, "Thank you, Rex. I don't deserve such generosity—but I'll accept it gladly. I've finished the letter to your publisher. I hope it won't make him cancel your contract." She tried to laugh.

Rex took the letter she handed him, his heart in his eyes.

"It's perfect," he said, without glancing at it.

Raye sat close to Bill Anderson in his rattly little coupe, astonished at herself for being attracted to a man who would stoop to what it seemed he must have done. Yet in spite of her conviction, she longed desperately to prove his innocence, and hoped he would say something to untangle the mystery and clear himself.

She reluctantly acknowledged her interest in him as the car shot out of the downtown tumult. She wondered how this interest would end. In no time at all it seemed. they came into a broad open highway, cut between sunlit green fields dotted with bright flowers, making her think of gemlike prisms in a lovely cathedral window.

She did not hide her delight when Bill turned the car into the private winding road of a farm and drew up beside a picturesque little lake with old weeping willows dipping its shores.

"How beautiful!" she exclaimed enthusiastically.

He assisted her from the car, his handclasp sending something electric through her.

"I thought you'd like it here," he said, his eyes meeting hers.

Then he quickly wheeled from her, and produced a lunch hamper from the car's luggage space. He carried it to a grassy knoll beside the blue water.

"Such marvelous peace!" sighed Raye, filling her lungs with the fragrant cool air.

Bill Anderson's hazel eyes followed every move she made. It seemed as if he desired to look at nothing but the grace and beauty of her. But what was running through his mind just then, he kept to himself.

STEEL INDUSTRY GETS DOLOMITE FROM OHIO AREA

Tiffin and Other Quarries In Northwest of State Supply 'Lining.'

By HAROLD C. McKINLEY
Associated Press Writer

TIFFIN—In the clearest weather, this rural community of 16,000 population hears "thunder" to the north.

Cannon-like blasts periodically shatter the pastoral calm of the flat, green countryside. The earth shudders slightly, and farmers busy with spring planting stop momentarily to gaze toward "the big hole in the ground."

In the midst of corn and wheat fields, the "big hole"—a dolomite quarry—roars with dynamite blasting and seethes with an industrial activity that sometimes baffles the surrounding landowners.

From the "hole" comes the hard, heat-resistant rock used to line the steel industry's white-hot blast and open hearth furnaces.

Without dolomite, the heavy flow of defense steel would drop to a trickle. Furnaces could not long withstand the 2,600 to 2,900-degree temperatures for melting iron and steel. Open-hearths would be "down for repairs" for long periods.

For nearly 60 per cent of its vital dolomite supply, the American steel industry depends upon the northwestern Ohio deposits. The large quarry lying 10 miles north of here and its adjacent processing plant, operated by Basic Refractories, Inc., help form a bulwark for steel's maintenance of capacity production.

Until the World war, the steel industry in America generally used magnesite imported from Austria for repairing and lining furnaces. When the war cut off this supply, experiments with dolomite proved it could be substituted for magnesite.

Dolomite looks like limestone and is composed mainly of magnesium oxide and calcium. After it has been crushed, screened to grain-size and "burned" at 3,000 degrees, it has the tough, heat-resistant qualities of magnesite. The "burning" drives off carbon dioxide in the form of gas, leaving the principal components of magnesium and calcium and reducing the rock particles to about half their original size.

This "clinkered dolomite" resembles cinders. Mixed with bonding materials and heated at high temperatures, it fuses into a solid. In the furnace it is built up in layers to thicknesses of two to six inches, forming a semi-permanent lining over the bottom and sides of the furnace's interior.

It serves the same purpose as a pan of melting wax. Just as the pan withstands heat at which wax melts, the furnace lining must hold up under terrific temperatures at which iron and steel melt.

Magnesite—now mined in Western United States—still is used as a permanent furnace bottom because it is tougher, more durable than dolomite. But clinkered dolomite is cheaper and has the advantage of fusing more rapidly, thus increasing the steel production rate by reducing the time needed for furnace repairs.

Basic Refractories' output has risen about 30 per cent in the past year, keeping pace with defense-accelerated steel production. From its mile-long quarry—part of a dolomite vein extending from Southern Ohio to Canada—the concern now processes 5,000 tons of the rock daily. About 2,000 tons of this is converted into clinkered dolomite, making 1,000 tons when finished.

Long lines of railroad cars shuttle to and from the quarry, carrying the refractories to plants scattered from New York to California, from Minnesota to Alabama and Georgia.

This 800-acre rock property has supplied the steel industry with hundreds of thousands of tons of dolomite in the past 23 years, but even at the present production rate it is estimated the supply is not likely to be exhausted within a hundred years.

Man Proposes In Auto, and Wreck Seals His Kiss

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— It wasn't puppy love, but it got William Abby, 24, into doghouse anyway.

While driving downtown, Abby proposed to Anne Elissa Hall, 23. Her answer hasn't been made a matter of public record, but anyway after the reply Abbey grabbed her and started to kiss her.

The auto swerved into a tree. Miss Hall suffered three broken ribs. Abbey hurried her to emergency hospital but, wishing to keep his romance private, reported they had been struck by a hit-run driver. He volunteered various names and addresses—all false as police discovered after considerable dashing about.

Brought to court to explain how come, Abbey smiled wanly and told the story. Municipal Judge Herbert Kaufman decided that a fine of $10 would be about right.

CO-OP EXPANDS

HANOVER, N. H. —(U.P.)— Because they wanted to get cheap heat five years ago, a group of college professors, farmers and townfolk formed a marketing organization to purchase oil. Now the organization has developed into a cooperative with its shareholders representing 300 families.

Huge Tea Deal Closed Between Russia and China

PEKING, China.— (INS) —Using the British port of Hongkong because it is free of Japanese interference, National China will concentrate there during the coming year 6,000,000 cases of brick tea. This is destined for Soviet Russia and at Hongkong it will be called for by ships of the U. S. S. R.

What is probably the world record in a single order for tea, Chungking and Moscow agreed to sell and purchase $100,000,000 Chinese currency worth of brick tea, favorite beverage of the Russians, during the year of 1941.

In return, free China will take Soviet goods which will come overland across Central Asia into the regions spared from Japanese military occupation.

From Chungking it is reported that traffic of goods from Russia into free China has doubled in recent months, indicating the new co-operation between Nationalist China and the Soviets.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN SCENE OF WEDDING

Laura Bickel Murphy Exchanged Nuptial Vows With Earl William Shea Sunday Noon In the Presence of Immediate Families.

IN A QUIET service at the First Presbyterian church Sunday at 12:30 Laura Bickel Murphy, daughter of Mrs. George Boyce, R. D. 4, Shelby exchanged nuptial vows with Earl William Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Shea, Lexington-Springmill road. Rev. David N. Roller officiated at the ceremony.

For her wedding the bride was attired in a floor length Alice blue taffeta gown and wore a shell pink hat covered with a blue shoulder length veil. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried an arm bouquet of lilies and delphinium tied with pink ribbon.

John S. Bradley, grandfather of the bride, gave her in marriage.

The couple was attended by the bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Paul Lambrecht and her husband, Mr. Lambrecht, of Cleveland. Mrs. Lambrecht wore a shell pink dotted swiss floor length gown with blue accessories and carried an arm bouquet of rosebuds, delphinium and carnations. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Boyce was attired in a navy blue ensemble with matching accessories and wore a corsage of carnations. Mrs. Shea wore a black ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of pink rose buds.

Nuptial music was Lohengrin's and Mendelsohn's wedding marches played by Miss Mabel Zehner, organist. During the ceremony she played La Golandrina by Sarradel and Traumerei by Schumann.

After the wedding ceremony a reception was held for twenty guests at the home of the bride's mother. Luncheon was served at a table decorated with crystal and white tapers. A wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple served as the centerpiece.

After the reception the couple left for a three weeks' wedding trip through the west. Upon their return they will reside at 736 North Mulberry street. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gates, Columbus, sister of the groom.

Garden Club Of Ohio Day To Be Held In Columbus

The Franklin Garden club of Columbus extends an invitation to all members of Garden Clubs of Ohio to attend Garden Club of Ohio day in Columbus on Tuesday, May 20.

Registrations will be taken at 10:30 a. m. in the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, 480 East Broad street. Cars will then proceed directly out East Broad street to the suburb of Bexley, where gardens will be visited.

After a tour of the gardens in the eastern section of Columbus, visitors will drive north to the Scioto Country club for luncheon at 1 p. m. More gardens will be visited in the afternoon. Tea will be served at "Boulder Lodge," the country home of Mrs. Frank C. Medick, in Worthington — just north of Columbus—following the afternoon tour.

The president of Garden Club of Ohio, Mrs. William A. Moeller of Macedonia, and other officers, will be on hand to welcome members from all over the state. Mrs. E. E. Ritter, Columbus, the fifth regional vice president of Garden Club of Ohio, is active in the plans for the day.

Mother's Day Tea Given By Story League

The Susie Janis home, Park avenue west, was the scene of the Mothers' Day tea given by members of the Mansfield Story League Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m. Music was provided by Miss Sally Rusk who played accordion selections, "Song of India," "Hungarian Dance, No 5," "Valse Bluettee," "My Sweetheart" "Come Back to Sorrenta" and "God Bless America."

Red roses were presented to each mother. Miss Elsie Smith, program chairman, introduced Miss Vera Smythe, who gave the story, "Ask Mr. Bear" by Flack, and Mrs. J. W. Funk, who told "The Hunt For the Beautiful" by Alden. Miss Helen Hartman, president, presided when tea was served. The committee in charge of arrangements was composed of Miss Jean Shively, Miss Leona Miles, Miss Anne Verba and Miss Isabel Mosey.

Fete Bride-Elect With Luncheon Party Saturday

The first in a series of prenuptial parties for Miss Doris Goodenough, bride-elect of Kenneth Mabee, was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Misses Mary and Emily Cox 388 West Third street. Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller was an associate hostess. Thirteen were present for a luncheon at noon which was served at several small tables. Appointments were in yellow and white and spring flowers decorated the table.

The hostesses presented the bride-elect with a gift of china and the guests surprised her with a shower of miscellaneous gifts. The afternoon was spent in making a bride's book.

Tonight a party will be given for Miss Goodenough at the home of Mrs. Richard Armstrong, Willow street. Associate hostesses will be Miss Virginia Stevick Mrs. Bernard Mahoney and Mrs. Robert Oberlin. Miss Goodenough will become the bride of Mr. Mabee Saturday afternoon at Atlanta, Ga.

The wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church in Shelby by Rev. Alexander B. Allison, in the presence of friends and relatives.

The bride wore a smoke blue frock with navy and white accessories and a white orchid corsage. She was attended by her sister, Miss Marjorie Wareham. Ray Schmunk was best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony the couple left for a trip through the South. Upon their return they will reside at 46 Bartley avenue. The bride has been employed in the office at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and Mr. Schmunk is employed at the Humphryes Manufacturing company.

Y. W. Girls' Groups Give Mothers' Tea

Members of the Beta Epsilon sorority and the Garcia club, business girls' organizations of the Y. W. C. A. entertained their mothers Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Y. W. club rooms. Miss Kay Johnson was toastmistress for the program which included two vocal numbers by Miss Margaret Rizer, "Mother Mavourcen" by Barnes and "Songs My Mother Taught Me." She was accompanied by Mrs. Elsie Ireland. Miss Charlotte Gray presented a toast to the mothers and Miss Viola Meyers played two accordion selections, "Roses" and "Little Soldier." Two piano numbers were played by Miss Carol Kirkland, "Ave Maria" and "Impromptu."

Following the entertainment tea was served from a long table centered with lilacs and lilies of the valley and tall lighted tapers in silver holders. Miss Frances Carter presided. Miss Norma Sheer and Miss Marjorie Hayward received the guests and arrangements for the party were in charge of Miss Jean Shively and Miss Ellen Hield.

Couple Honored At Buckley Home

Sixteen couple met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buckley, 231 Rhine avenue, Saturday evening for a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Murphy, who were recently married. Games and dancing were the diversions of the evening. The hosts presented the newlyweds with a gift of furniture. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening at tables decorated with spring flowers.

MOTHERS' DAY PARTIES GIVEN BY SORORITIES

Six Social Groups Honor Mothers With Breakfast Programs or Tea Sunday at Mansfield-Leland Hotel, Susie Janis and Wickliffe Manor.

MANY of the Mansfield sororities honored the mothers of their members with appropriate breakfast programs or teas Sunday. Forty attended the breakfast party given by the Delta Theta chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority yesterday at 8:30 o'clock in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Refreshments were served at small tables decorated with spring flowers. Each mother was presented with a gardenia corsage and the daughters wore roses.

Mrs. Howard Heston was toastmistress and the toast to the mothers was given by Miss Doris Mann. Mrs. J. G. Wallace gave the toast to the daughters. Piano selections were played by Miss Thelma Reed and Miss Marjorie Dise led the group in singing. The program was planned by Mrs. Harry Mehock. Tonight the members will meet for a business session at the home of Sidney Palmer, West First street, at which time election of officers will be held.

Alpha Epsilon chapter of Alpha Si Sigma sorority also gave a breakfast party at the Leland hotel yesterday at 8 a. m. with 25 present. Pink and white appointments were used to decorate the long table and each mother was presented with a dainty plant. Miss Isabel Gertsmeyer welcomed the guests and a gave a toast to the mothers and Miss Garnet Karl presided as toastmistress. Mrs. Frank Daugherty toasted the daughters. Vocal numbers, "Songs My Mother Taught Me," and "Mother O' Mine" were sung by Miss Ada Mae Harbaugh, accompanied by Miss Wanda Hess. There will be a meeting Tuesday evening at the hotel.

Zeta Rho chapter members of the Delta Theta Tau sorority gave a Mothers' day breakfast in the club room of the Leland Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. Thirty-six were served at a U-shaped table decorated with roses and snapdragons. Miss Margaret Strickler was toastmistress and introduced Mrs. Robert Brook, who sang "Out of the Night" and "Mother," accompanied by Miss Eleanor Clingan. Mrs. John Douglas gave the welcome to the mothers and Mrs. Sherman Glessner responded. Prayer and group singing concluded the program. The mothers were presented with corsages of red and white flowers and table appointments were in green and white The next meeting of the chapter will be held at the home of Mrs. James Ford, Western avenue, May 19, for installation of officers.

Members of the Delta Sigma Zeta sorority gave a Mothers' day breakfast at the Susie Janis home at 8 a. m. with Miss Anne Wilson as general chairman. Girl Thinks Mother Unduly Strict With Her

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a girl of 18 whose mother won't permit her to go out with girls, much less boys. I'm the only child. My friends are allowed to bring their boy friends to their houses and they go out and have good times while I stay at home doing nothing.

Through one of my girl friends I met a young man whom I like very much indeed, and want to see him again. He's 23 and a gentleman in every respect. If I told my mother about him, she'd never let me go out again.

I don't drink or smoke. If I stay out after ten o'clock I am made to stay in the house for two weeks or even a month. My father wouldn't forbid my going out but he can't say anything about it. Won't you please tell me what to do, Miss Fairfax?

A READER.

I've written so much in this column about the over-strict parent and the misfortunes this extreme watchfulness brings in its wake that I feel there's nothing more to be said on that subject. A girl of 18 who is not permitted to have her friends at the house is likely to run off and marry the first undesirable she meets.

This girl's father seems more open to reason, and I hope he will be able to persuade his wife to take a more reasonable attitude toward this couped-up daughter.

MARRIED SOMEONE ELSE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm almost 18 years old and graduate from high school this June. I'm taking up a business course now, trying to fit myself for a job. But I am so discouraged.

The boy I love is 24 years old and has just married another girl. He asked me several times to marry him, but my parents didn't want me to make any promises until I finished school. He couldn't wait that long, but went ahead and married someone else.

He hasn't a regular job, and right now they are living with his mother and dad. I love him terribly, but my mother tries to console me by saying I'll be thankful before this year is over I didn't marry him. Do you think she's right?

EDIE.

I believe a good many of us fall in love frantically before we're quite eighteen, and when we meet those sweethearts in later life are more than resigned that we didn't marry them.

A young man of 24, with no regular job seems a good deal of a risk to me. I'm willing to wager you something pretty that you will be thankful for that decision to graduate before you considered marriage.

BOY FRIEND ENLISTS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I went with a young man steady for over a year. Last November he joined the army, and is stationed in another state. It was my idea that he go into the service, so I'm wondering if I ought to wait until he returns, three years from now, or go out with other boys. He asked me to marry him when he comes home and I promised to wait.

Don't you think almost anything could happen in this time and that his feelings might change? We're both only 18, and I don't like the idea of sitting at home all this time waiting for him to come out of the army. He's a dependable boy and I've never had cause to doubt his word. But I would like to go out with other boys just for company's sake.

VIRGINIA.

As it was your suggestion that the young man join the army, it seems to me that you are not without a certain obligation to him, especially since you promised to wait for him.

Why not write him and say, since you're both only 18, doesn't he think it pretty young to make definite promises, and that you are suggesting that he enjoy himself at those hostess parties where they all dance, and that you will go out with other boys occasionally. Eighteen is pretty young to be engaged.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

By MARIAN MARTIN

Some like them long . . . some like them short—so Marian Martin has included both in this versatile style. Pattern 9718 is a whole wardrobeful of rough 'n' tumble clothes; including overalls, a playsuit and a gay sundress. All three garments have top-scalloped bodices: all three conveniently button down the left side. The overalls and playsuit have straps that button on in front; the back bodice of the dress is identical to the front. Tiny pointed pockets are optional, so is ric-rac or ruffle trim. The one-piece eye-shading sunbonnet buttons in back and ties under the chin. Order this sunny-day outfit right away!

Pattern 9718 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, overalls and bonnet, requires 2 yards 36 inch fabric; sun-dress, 1¼ yards 35 inch fabric, and playsuit, 1 yard 36 inch fabric.

Send 15c in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

My mental barometer travelled rapidly downward at Mary's speech but I saw a social necessity and met it.

"I shall be very glad to come back," I said, adding the stipulation, "but only for a very few minutes."

"Oh! they understand that," she said. "They know a busy and great lady must not be bothered long. But the people who know you are so anxious to see you again, and the others who have not met you will be so disappointed if they do not have a chance to be introduced to the brilliant author."

"Poor things!" I said lightly. "The disappointment they have in store!"

Chided By Veritzen.

Philip Veritzen turned to me with majestic disapproval.

"You must not say such things even in jest," he said. "You are a brilliant playwright, and your play is a successful Broadway production. Above all, it is a Veritzen production."

I wondered what Olga thought of this particular touch of conceit—rather than arrogance—but when I saw her smiling serenely at both of us, I saw that her old court training, which left the last word of valuation with the royal family, was still inhibiting her to the point where she saw nothing incongruous in her husband's flamboyant speech.

It is perfectly natural for people to want to meet a celebrity, such as you are," he went on didactically. "You may not like it, but it is one of the penalties of fame, to which, I am afraid, you will have to submit."

There was a note of authority in his voice which I had learned to obey long ago during the time when I was in his organization. Like all habits, it held even when I am under no slightest compulsion to obey him, and my reply was meek.

Debt of Gratitude.

"I am at your command, of course, for anything you may wish me to do," I said and meant it. For, after all, this man had had faith in me in the days when my play was in embryo and had given me my opportunity for a Broadway production. I modified my gratitude a bit with the reminder that he never gave anyone an opportunity for dramatic success unless convinced that the success would redound to the honor and glory of Philip Veritzen.

But I did not regret my offer of fealty. He really deserved it. I decided, and from his pleased and gratified look I knew that he shared my opinion.

"But we must not keep you longer," he said, with the instinctive knowledge of an emergency to be met which his experience as an executive has given him. "Mary, will you please take your aunt to her room at once? We will carry on here."

"We shall be waiting so anxiously for your return," Olga said. "And— I am counting on seeing you alone after that."

"I shall see that you do not count in vain," I returned, smiling, and assuming a lightness I was far from feeling.

Olga Shows Relief.

"Thank you," she said simply, but I was amazed at the expression of relief which flashed into her big, lustrous eyes, once "the toast of Europe," and was as quickly masked again beneath her carefully preserved composure, product of a lifetime of rigorous court training.

"All right, Auntie Madge," Mary said, obeying her father-in-law's mandate. "Come along with me, and I'll go through with whatever third degree you're contemplating."

"Nothing so bad as that, Mary," I returned with conventional raillery, and we went out together, both conscious of the curious and interested glances that followed us.

The door closed behind us, but the hall door of Mary's bedroom opened immediately afterward, and Nancy Carew come out hurriedly.

Parental Emotion Has Effect on Child

By GARRY MYERS, Ph.D.

Without emotions, a person would be no more appealing than a stone, steel pillar or icicle. By our emotions we attract, as by them we also repel. On our emotions and their mixture our personality depends. It's a matter of when to be angry, for example, how angry to be, and how to express this anger most effectively.

A parent feels anger in relation to the growing child in varying degrees, often described as annoyance, irritation, vexation and the like. While her ability to be angry at the right time may aid her best guidance of the child, her anger in ome form or mixed with fear and anxiety often is the greatest enemy to her and her child. Assuming she has good standards, her efficiency as parent depends chiefly on how well she masters these emotions, instead of letting these emotions master her.

See how many problems never would arise if she always controlled her emotions (if the father also mastered his!). She would have almost no troubles then over the appetite of the baby and young child, granted that he had proper medical care; and almost none over his sleeping habits. Tantrums, thumb-sucking, nail-biting and stuttering would be very rare, indeed.

Yet complete self-mastery of emotions in such situations is too much to expect in any mother, or even to imagine in a father (barring a few exceptions). Nevertheless, it is an objective worth working toward and some mothers do seem about to reach it, so poised and self-controlled are they.

Where is the mother who feels no inner conflicts—no annoyance, fears, anxieties—when the baby doesn't eat every food she offers it or as much as she thinks he should? Yet her very emotions, in the long run, do most to lessen her child's appetite. Who can imagine a mother without inner warfare as she hears her youngster stutter, sees him suck his thumb or bite his finger nails? But the more a mother worries, and shows her emotions, the more these problems will grow in the child.

Self mastery of emotions does not just mean keeping the lips sealed and the hands and feet still, though such might help. It means turning the attention to something else. It means, in short, cultivating a sensible attitude toward these matters. It means intelligent plans and procedure. Without some such program the inner boilings go on. Besides, they will burst out and express themselves in some way, if only in the mode of breathing, and the child, even the tiny infant, can read our inner conflicts no matter how we try to hide them from him.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. How may a parent locate a psychologist and be sure he is not a quack

A. By addressing a letter of enquiry to the department of psychology of your nearest college or university.

Q. How can a mother help a child from one to two from being messy as he eats?

A Place before the child only one food at a time, not solids and liquids together. Expect some mess. Be happy as he enjoys the food using bare hands or spoon as he prefers. He will graduate by and by into handling of utensils.

Q. Some high school youths whose school reports show them slipping or failing are deprived of certain privileges for a week or two. Do you consider such procedure wise?

A. No; punishment of any kind hardly motivates the youth to study harder. It might be, however, that for greater future school success his number of nights out should be limited, even to all nights immediately preceding school days, though not with the idea of punishment but of cultivating a better home study program.

LUNCH IN A HURRY

Here is a hurry-up supper or luncheon suggestion: Beat 2 eggs, add ½ cup grated cheese and 1 cup of canned cream of mushroom soup, heat in a double boiler until smoking, add a little salt and paprika for extra seasoning and serve over crackers, toast, rusks or boiled rice. This makes enough to serve 3.

Honeyed Ham Presents New Taste Thrill

A honey of a combination any way you look at it is ham with honey. Sucha delectable twosome should never be separated. The natural sweetness of both foods blends perfectly.

The ways of a good cook with ham and honey are numerous. But two of the best are as follows.

Baked Whole Ham.

Place a whole or half ham fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Make an incision and insert thermometer so that the center of the bulb reaches the center of the largest muscle. Be sure that the bulb does not rest on either fat or bone. Do not cover and do not add water. Place in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) and bake until done. Smoked ham is done when the meat thermometer registers 170 degrees F. Allow about 25 minutes per pound for baking a whole ham and about 30 minutes per pound for a half ham. Many of the hams now on the market are done at an internal temperature lower than 170 degrees F., and require about one-fourth less cooking time than given above. Cooking directions are enclosed with these hams and should be followed.

Just before the ham is done, remove it from the oven and take off the rind, if this was not already done when the ham came from the market. Chop ½ cup maraschino cherries and mix with 1 cup strained honey. Pour this over the ham and return it to oven to finish baking and to glaze.

Ham With Fruit Sauce.

Prepare the ham as above. During the last hour of cooking, spread the ham with strained honey, lemon juice and a little grated lemon peel. Baste three times with the lemon-honey mixture, keeping water in the pan to prevent burning. When you remove the ham, pour off any surplus fat, add some crushed pineapple and seedless raisins to the drippings. Cook these to a sauce and serve up with the ham.

GROUND MEAT

The lowly meat ball has a big part to play in the role of home defense. Credit him, if you please, with supplying a high amount of food values for only a few cents. Not only does he contribute proteins, minerals and vitamin B's to low-cost meals, but also flavor and variety.

So, for ammunition in your home defense program, add the following ground meat recipes to your files:

Beef Patties Barbecued.

½ pound ground beef
½ cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons melted lard
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup catsup
1 onion minced
Salt and pepper

Moisten crumbs with a little of the milk. Add ground beef, remaining milk, season and mix thoroughly. Form four large patties. Brown on both sides in hot lard. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and cook for 10 minutes.

Ground Lamb Patties.

Have ground lamb shaped into patties one inch thick and wrapped with bacon, fastening bacon with toothpicks. Arrange patties and pineapple slices on broiler rack. When patties are brown, lay brown side down on pineapple slices, and finish cooking.

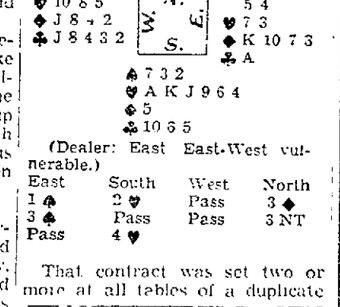
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ALMOST A CONVENTION

Many a sequence of plays amounts practically to a fixed convention. Their meaning is so clear-cut that it would be inexcusable to misunderstand. Yet they are fumbled upon occasion by players who consider themselves very fair performers. One such sequence comes when the partner of the opening leader against a suit game wins the first trick, lays down the ace of another suit and then either switches back to the original suit or opens the third side suit. It should be clear that his second ace was probably a singleton and he wants to ruff the second round of that suit if you ever get in the lead.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦
3 ♠	Pass	Pass	3 NT
Pass	4 ♥

That contract was set two or more at all tables of a duplicate but one. Each time West led his spade 9 to the 10 and J. East laid down his club A and then led the spade A. Where the contract was set only one, the next spade was ruffed by West, who failed to read the reason for the club A play and returned a diamond.

Where the contract was set two, West, after ruffing the third spade, returned a club, so that East got a ruff. There must have been some pretty lazy card readers in the West seats, for only one of them saw how to beat the contract three tricks. That fellow did not even let this partner's spade A win the third trick, but trumped it with his heart 5. He then offered East a first ruff of clubs, and when the third spade was led to him for his own second ruff, he led another round of clubs and East got his second ruff with the heart 7.

All that a West player had to do, in order to see what was the best line of defense, was to count the club suit. If the A was a singleton—which it must be—then South had three clubs. West could reckon simply enough that his partner must have two trumps as otherwise he would have had so many diamonds he would have bid them, a five-card suit, or else so many spades, seven, that he would have bid them once more.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, May 13.

Judging by the lunar transits this should be a very active day, with the prospect of much creative incentive in the direction of new propositions and with the energies bent to high purpose and backed up by decided skill, ingenuity and initiative. However, unless these fine forces and facilities are kept in grooves both practical, controlled and amicable there is danger of defeat and disruption. This mainly through deception, fraud, intrigue or possible opposition from a group, community or public source. Caution spells success.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of progress and much constructive work, perhaps in a new direction or on some major proposition requiring initiative, executive ability and practical plans executed with aggressive and energetic attack. But be prepared for some subtle opposition, with treachery, deceit and sinister intent at the source. This might be from public or community antagonism and should be met with resistance and reason as well as amiability. Bitterness and strife would be unfavorable.

A child born on this day should have much creative ability, energy and practical ideas, but its inclination to ill-considered words and speech may prove its undoing.

Present Comedy At Bellville Friday

Shown above are members of the senior class of Bellville high school who will stage a three-act comedy, "Here Comes Charley," at 8 p. m. Friday in the high school auditorium. From left to right they are Nellie Yarger, Fritz Leedy, Martha Jeanne Lacey, Robert Hazen and Marjorie Russell. Other members of the cast are Tom Frye, Frances Dill, Betty Spayde, Robert Edgerly, Jack Conners. The play is being directed by W. H. Miley, faculty advisor.

THEATERS

Thwarts Romance.

Mary Astor is responsible for all the skullduggery in "The Great Lie," Bette Davis' starring vehicle at the Ohio. As a concert pianist she gets George Brent in her clutches before his childhood sweetheart, Bette Davis, has a chance and thereby begins a series of thrilling episodes in which the triangle figures. As a modern American girl, Academy Award Winner Davis, turns in as great a performance as she did with Brent in "Dark Victory." The supporting cast has Lucile Watson, Grant Mitchell and Hattie McDaniel.

Has New Pest.

Ellen Drew in her screen career has been hounded by cowboys, a mad doctor and a gorilla with a human brain, but never has she been the victim of an outboard motor. That is until she appeared in "Reaching for the Sun," playing at the Madison. The bride of Joel McCrea, a Michigan woodsman, she finds her husband more enamored with his outboard motor than he is of her. Albert Dekker and Billy Gilbert are in the cast. The companion picture, "The Round Up," features Richard Dix.

Andy Graduates.

Carvel, the home town of the Hardy family, experiences a high school graduation in "Andy Hardy's Private Secretary," showing at the Ritz. Mickey Rooney in his familiar role of "Andy" is one of the class who almost fails to make the grade at the last minute due to some well-meaning Good Samaritan acts that prove fatal. Fay Holden, Sara Haydn, Lewis Stone and several newcomers are in the cast. "Dark Streets of Cairo," with Eddie Quillan and Sigrid Gurie is the second attraction.

Blondie Adventures.

Escaping "Blondie's" eyes is one thing but escaping "Baby Dumpling" is another so "Dagwood Bumstead" learns in the current "Blondie" picture showing at the park. "Blondie Goes Latin," has the inimitable trio, Arthur Lake, Penny Singleton and Larry Simms as the family familiar to every reader of "Chic" Young's newspaper comic strip. "Dagwood's" ineptitude in escaping from his family while on a cruise motivates the plot. "A Man Betrayed," with John Wayne is the second attraction.

POTATO BARS HUGE SUCCESS

London Tries Out New Scheme To Crusade Cause of Plentiful Potato.

LONDON—(INS)—With a hundred recipes on hand, London's first Potato Bars have opened and are proving a gigantic success.

Selling potatoes hot and cold, sweet and savory, in far more different forms, and combined with far more different eatables than could ever be imagined, the Potato Bars are giving the popular Milk Bars some close competition.

This is the beginning of the Ministry of Food's scheme for promoting snack bars to crusade the cause of the plentiful and nutritious potato—helped out by carrots, sprats, and other foods which they want the public to consume in increasing quantities.

This follows the experiments of experts who have discovered a hundred ways of serving a potato. Not only will the bars be open for the sale of potatoes, but one corner of the bar will be reserved for non-stop demonstrations to housewives on how to cook them.

To name a few varieties, there are bright green potato soups, sunset mashed potatoes, coffee potato scones, "Pigs in Clover," "Jack-in-the-Box's" and "Piccaninnies."

It is hoped by the Ministry of Food that the big stores will soon set up luxury specimens of their own, and that in time potatoes will be a worthy substitute for the present popular fish and chips.

During the 1940 summer travel season 627,847 persons, traveling in 183,658 automobiles, visited Rocky Mountain National park in Colorado.

Non-Spark Shoes Are Designed for Defense Workers

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— Needs of munitions workers have led to the introduction of non-spark shoes and other new types of safety shoes adapted to the use of workers in defense industries.

Included among safety shoes exhibited by St. Louis shoe manufacturers at the recent sixth annual National Shoe Fair in Chicago, the non-spark shoes are put together with brass nails and are so constructed it is said that workers in powder plants and oil fields may wear them without fear that they will throw sparks and perhaps cause fire.

Another safety shoe geared to the needs of the day is the non-metallic electricians shoes which may be worn in electrified mines without, it is claimed, transmitting current.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking for Myself.

I WONDER if there are still girls who think Noel Coward is more their type than Victor Mature.... I think baseball would make very dull reading if it weren't for the Brooklyn Dodgers and their daffy doings. . . .

Dorothy Kilgallen

Of all the glamor girls in the cinema, Claudette Colbert looks best in a tailored suit. . . . One thing I'll say about the management of the Rivoli theater: When they give you a Marlene Dietrich picture like "Flame of New Orleans" they also give you a Donald Duck.

I wonder what happens to high school attendance records on days when big swing bands open at the Paramount and the Strand. . . . Sometime I'd like to see a newspaper photograph of Ernest Hemingway in repose—just sipping a tall drink or lolling in a beach chair reading the sports section.

I knew Ernest as rather a quiet fellow whose voice is so low as to be almost difficult to hear; but all the rotogravure snapshots show him looking dynamic in the middle of a battlefield, or bursting with red corpuscles on the verge of a tiger hunt. . . .

I have just met a taxi driver whose name is Ivanhoe. He was probably born while his mother was doing some required reading for English Two.

Most hilarious book I've read in months is "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat," by Isabel Scott Rorick. Chapter Two is guaranteed to induce hysteria. . . . Ginger Rogers, to my way of thinking, is the outstanding example of a girl who successfully changed horses in midstream—mid-stream of a prosperous career.

Not so long ago, this year's Academy Award winner was known as "The Typical John Held, Jr., Girl." She was sort of the Bonnie Baker of her day, with rolled socks, a boyish bob bordered with "spit curls," and a baby voice given to reciting silly poems in the jargon of the day. She made good with that type—most girls, having made good, would have been afraid to change it.

But Ginger, being smart, was afraid not to—and she became one of the screen's foremost exponents of the realistic school of acting. No make-up, no glamorous photography, no flattering clothes. I suppose that's why she won the Academy Award.

I never wear rubbers and never carry an umbrella. Hate rubbers, and gave up owning umbrellas years ago because I always left mine in telephone booths, So now I'm a doorway-to-taxi ducker. . . .

For anyone traveling anywhere—by rail, yacht or plane—I recommend Don Short's new volume on how to do it painlessly: "The Magic Carpet." Even tells you how to undress in an upper berth without breaking your collarbone.

I can think of a thousand things I'd rather be than a commuter. . . . I'll bet Variety a nickel that Dorothy McGuire does get the role of "Claudia" in the radio version of Rose Franken's hit play. . . . I don't trust any of those numerologists who are always promising "After May 21, Hitler will be on the downgrade." Show me, brothers. . . .

I can remember way back when Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford and Marlene Dietrich shaved their eyebrows and just pencilled a thin line over their eyes. And half the girls in the country copied it. Ugh! . . .

Look up the Hudson from the Claremont Inn on Riverside drive when there are no ships sailing, squint at the proper angle, and you can pretend you're back in the time of Hendrick Hudson.

Pencil sharpeners fascinate me. I want to keep sharpening the pencils right down to the eraser. . . . The Little Flower probably has his reasons, but it always charms me the way politicos get coy and uncertain about their plans early in the election year. Some day, I hope, a politician will conclude his oath of office by saying, "Start the petition, boys I'm running again in four years!" . . .

I wonder what chauffeurs say about their employers when they gather in those chummy little knots in front of theaters and shops and hotels . . .

I always bring three handkerchiefs to an Irene Dunne flicker. . . . I wonder if there's a New York law making it illegal to issue a press release about a new night club which does not include the words "decor" and "cuisine."

Sometimes I have a nightm are in which I find myself chained to a radio on a mid-week afternoon and forced to listen to four consecutive hours of cliff-hanger serials. . . .

I think mesh stockings belong only on the stage and in the cinema, not in the subway.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—"The Great American Broadcast." Screenplay by Don Ettinger, Edwin Blum, Robert Ellis, Helen Logan. Directed by Archie Mayo. Principals: Alice Faye, Jack Oakie, John Payne, Cesar Romero, Four Ink Spots, James Newill, Nicholas Brothers, Wiere Brothers, Mary Beth Hughes.

We'd never suspected it before, but now we know whom to blame or thank for the ceaseless flow of entertainment, alleged and otherwise, that pours from the nation's loudspeakers. Handsome John Payne did it, with his big ideas, when he teamed up with that chap from the telephone line gang named Oakie, who had a sweetie named Faye who could sing.

The trio got together back in 1919. First thing anybody knew, they'd staged a flop broadcast in a tent in Jersey during a howling storm. Next thing, they'd clicked with an epochal broadcast of the Dempsey-Willard fight. Meanwhile Payne and Faye had discovered each other, Oakie had concealed his broken heard by socking Payne in the puss, and that led to rivalry in the days that followed.

Payne and Faye's little station couldn't compete with rich playboy Romero's. Hankering after Alice, Romero secretly backed Payne, whose pride couldn't stand it. So Payne faded. The team became Romero, Faye and Oakie. But Alice carried the torch, and Oakie knew it. So what does he do? Aw, you know. It's that good old plot they used in "Tin Pan Alley" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and the others, and it's as good a plot as any.

The film runs 92 minutes, but it runs off with a fast pace—good comedy, clever gags, hit specialties, abundant filling of ear and eye by the luscious Alice. Extra-added asset: it never takes itself seriously.

"The Wagons Roll At Night."

A movie called "Kid Gallahad" told this story a few years back using a prizefight setting instead of the current carnival background. Humphrey Bogart is the carnival owner with the little sister on the farm, sheltered from contact with show people. Eddie Albert is the amateur lion tamer who meets the sister, Sylvia Sidney the carnival girl-friend of Bogart. Strictly formula and pretty transparent, "Wagons" conveys a convincing atmosphere of the tent-show along with its melodrama. Best performance is Albert's. Intersting and different is Joan Leslie as the sister.

Chatter Corner

(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

Mrs. Jean Lodrick feeling "pert" this morning because of the bright sunshine. . . . Bus Driver Paul Bader wondering where a regular passenger had been for the past week. . . . G. L. Moore a little weary after climbing three flights of stairs. . . . W. T. Houston, assistant postmaster, very busy with the year's supply of money order blanks.

Arthur M. Lantz chatting with Clerk of Council Bill Beer . . . City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, jr., hurrying for morning session of Municipal court . . . Fred Boals and Auditor Paul L. Kelley discussing week-end ball games . . . Police Sergeant Claude Watts planning a bit of golfing. . . .

* * *

Charles Kirkwood, clerk of the No. 3 draft board, telling about the transient registrant who had used so many aliases that he couldn't remember his right name. . . . Anne Arron playing two golf courses in the same day. . . . Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck keeping a count of the new residences he sees on his walks to and from work.

* * *

Bryon Conn visiting with other office employes in the Woolworth building. . . . Esther Barnett and Katherine McMichael going to lunch together this noon. . . . Kay Dalton trying to keep up with the rush of lunch business at a local eatery. . . . Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Schumacher, 131 South Diamond street, spending Sunday at several beaches along Lake Erie. . . . Marguerite Beck looking very jaunty walking down Main street. . . . Louis J. Ott, doing a hundred-yard dash to catch up with friends.

MOTIVE LACKING IN CLEVELAND MURDER, SUICIDE

Bodies of Newspaper Woman, Suitor Are Found In Parked Auto.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Coroner Samuel R. Gerber today penned "motive unknown" on an official murder-suicide verdict in the roadside shooting of an attractive 25-year-old brunet reporter and her suitor.

The bodies of Miss Josephine Scott, assistant club editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and William Haltenberger, jr., 30, a research student at Tulsa university, were found last night in his car, parked along the banks of the Chagrin river in fashionable Moreland Hills village.

A new 38-calibre revolver was on the seat between them Coroner Gerber said Haltenberger had fired a bullet into Miss Scott's left temple and then pressed the gun to his own head.

Deputy Marshal Frank Feigle of Hunting Valley, called into the adjoining suburb after passing hikers found the car, said there were no signs of a scuffle.

Dr. Roy W. Scott, chief physician at City hospital, discounted a suicide-pact theory, declaring his daughter had been in good spirits. She left home Saturday night with Haltenberger and Coroner Gerber set the time of death as "early Sunday morning."

The doctor said the two met in 1934 while they were students at the University of Michigan. Haltenberger stopped here Thursday enroute to Ashland, Ky., where he planned to take a job with an oil company.

Coroner Gerber said papers found in the man's traveling bag showed he had been divorced from Isabel C Haltenberger at Ann Arbor in 1938

Miss Scott was graduated from Michigan in 1936 and from Columbia university School of Journalism the following year She started work with the Plain Dealer last September.

Haltenberger was a native of Budapest, Hungary, where his father is reported to be a well-known engineer

FIND BODY OF THIRD VICTIM

Authorities Extend Search For Hunchback In Series of Desert Murders.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—(INS)—Search for Alfred Wells, crazed ex-convict, was intensified throughout western United States today after the body of his third victim was discovered by a sheriff's posse of almost 1,000 volunteers near the isolated canyon where he shot two women.

The body of Raymond Wells, 24-year-old railroad worker and half-brother of his slayer, was discovered a mile from the spot where the ex-convict shot to death Raymond's wife, Jean, 20, and fatally wounded her 17-year-old friend, Rose Destree.

Authorities said that Raymond had been shot in the back of the head and had been dead about four days.

The manhunt for the hunchbacked killer extended as far east as Detroit after police revealed that a map was found in his automobile, abandoned in Las Vegas, Nev., last Thursday, on which he had carefully traced a railway route to the Michigan city.

Federal agents joined police of four states in the hunt when the United States attorney's office in Los Angeles filed a warrant charging him with violating the Dyer act by driving a stolen automobile across a state line.

HOLMES FARMER STRICKEN AT 87

Henry Kasner Had Been Ill Two Weeks at Killbuck Home.

MILLERSBURG — Henry Kasner, 87 for many years a well known farmer in Killbuck township, died this morning at his home, one mile west of Killbuck, following a two weeks' illness.

Mr. Kasner, a member of the Killbuck Methodist church, was preceded in death by his wife, Eliza Snow Kasner, in 1933.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Albert Baird and Mrs. Hayes Kuhns, of Killbuck, Mrs. R. J Brown of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Martha Kasner, living at home. Also surviving are eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Killbuck Methodist church Thursday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. A. F. Uphoff will officiate. Burial will be in Killbuck cemetery.

ATTORNEY DIES

STEUBENVILLE — (INS) — Ralph B. Cohen, widely-known Steubenville attorney, died in the Ohio Valley hospital today after a brief illness.

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFIT, MINE BILLS AWAIT ACTION IN HOUSE

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Two major pieces of legislation awaiting final action of the general assembly—the unemployment insurance and mine safety bills—will be brought up for action in the house probably Wednesday.

They already have been approved by the senate but must return there for concurrence in amendments.

Sub-committees of the house judiciary committee hoped to complete work on the measures late today.

Sub-committeemen said nothing extremely controversial had been added to the unemployment insurance bill and were of the opinion that it would be approved by the house without much delay.

Broadly, it is estimated to increase benefits to the jobless by $7,500,000 a year while reducing by $16,000,000 the pay roll taxes of employers contributing to the insurance fund.

The mine safety bill, embracing recommendations of a governor's committee which investigated coal mine explosions fatal to more than 100 men is reported to have been drastically revised by house members.

Many of the revisions, an informed source said, include points which mine operators unsuccessfully sought to insert when the bill was before the senate

The extent to which the changes are satisfactory to labor probably will regulate the bill's progress in the house.

If the senate house do not become involved in a dispute over the mine bill, the legislature is expected to end its working sessions Friday.

The senate returns to work tonight; the house, tomorrow.

STRICKEN AT 45

Mrs. Jarman Was Wife of Golf Club Greenskeeper.

A resident of Mansfield for the past nine years, Mrs Pearl M. Jarman, 45, wife of Charles Jarman, resident greenskeeper at the Westbrook Country club, died this morning at Mansfield General hospital. She had been ill six weeks.

Mrs. Jarman, who was born in Sharpsville, Pa., Sept. 26, 1895, was a member of the First Christian church in Mansfield.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Mildred Mathias and Waunetah Jarman; one son, Charles D. Jarman; her father, Charles Haun, her stepmother, and one granddaughter, all of this city. Also surviving is one brother, Clarence Haun, of Netwood, O.

The body was taken to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held Wednesday at 10 30 a. m. Rev. B F Hagelbarger will officiate Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

RITES TUESDAY

Mrs. Margaret Korns, Millersburg, To Be Buried At 2 P. M.

MILLERSBURG—Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Korns, 82, who died Saturday at the home of her daughter Mrs. Jerry Uhl, of near Millersburg following a lingering illness, will be held at the Hunter funeral home here Tuesday at 2 p. m. Rev. H H. Hunter, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be in Millersburg

Mrs Korns is survived by two daughters, Mrs. O D. Mast, and Mrs Jerry Uhl, of near Millersburg, two grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

Laff-a-Day

"Gee, mom, the team will think I'm a rotten pitcher, if you keep sendin' me to the showers every afternoon!"

R. E Stevens, salesman for the Mansfield Monument company, had two unexpected and costly callers yesterday. Stevens was talking with two prospective customers in the company's display lot at Altamont avenue and Chestnut street when suddenly a car, carrying two women, ran over the curbing and through the lot. Stevens told police that the car damaged six monument pieces but failed to stop He gave police the car's license number.

Passengers on the courthouse elevator weren't sure today where they were going when they pushed the control buttons. In a move to eliminate confusion over floor numbers, the elevator control panel was changed, with the basement listed as the first floor and the attic was the fourth floor. Regular passengers who were accustomed to calling the third floor the second found that they had to start again when the elevator stopped a floor too soon. The control board before the change listed the floors as the basement, first, second, and third.

CROPS NORMAL

Reporting Service Says Prospects In Ohio Good Despite Drouth

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)— Despite a minor drouth in early spring, Ohio crops on May 1 were in normal or slightly better than normal condition, the federal-state co-operative crop reporting service said today.

Until early this month when there were statewide showers, the total precipitation for the state was far below normal, the report said

Winter wheat in Ohio promises to yield 40,754,000 bushels, about 3 per cent less than in 1940 but slightly more than the 1930-39 average.

WOODSMEN AND PILOTS JOIN IN INTENSIVE HUNT

Brewster Ship, En Route To Ohio, Believed Down In Allegheny Timberland.

BELLEFONTE, Pa.—(AP)—Experienced woodsmen and sportsmen pilots fanned out over aviation's old "graveyard of the Alleghenies" today in search of Mr. and Mrs Benjamin Brewster, socially prominent New Yorkers whose plane is long overdue on a cross-country jaunt.

Charles Foley of Roosevelt field, N. Y., said 70 planes, including 20 army ships from Wright field at Dayton, had been ordered to join in the search, centering in this rugged region between here and Dubois, Pa., 50 miles away.

Woods-wise veterans of many a search for missing planes in aviation's early days when this thickly timbered mountainous section of central Pennsylvania got its nickname feared the Brewsters may have been forced down in some isolated section and that the heavy spring foliage had obliterated the signs.

All along the route from Roosevelt field, N Y., where the 33-year-old business man and his wife took off Friday, to Warren, O., officials and volunteers kept watch. The Brewsters had planned a week-end with Warren friends

The route now is guided by radio beams which with other improvements make the mountains comparatively safe. Storms were in the area Friday, however.

It was a report by C. H. Shaffer late Friday that he had heard a motor go dead on a low-flying plane near his home at Madisonburg, 20 miles away, which concentrated the search in this sparsely settled area.

More than 20 planes, many of them piloted by socialite friends of the Brewsters, came here from Roosevelt field, Wilmington, Del., and other ports.

In New York, Whitney Stone, Brewster's brother-in-law, posted a $1,000 reward for finding of the black and green beechcraft

Edward Brewster, a brother, joined friends in one of the flights.

Brewster, associated with the investment firm of Case Pomeroy and company is a member of the class of 1929 at Yale. His wife is the former Leonie DeBarry Lyon, whom he married two years ago.

An experienced pilot, Brewster has had more than 1,000 hours in the air

Mercury Tumbles Below Freezing 2 Nights In Row

Temperatures which skidded below freezing the past two nights caused many a Mansfielder to haul out woollen blankets that were already put away in moth balls

Saturday night the mercury dropped to 30 degrees and last night was recorded at 31 as cool weather prevailed over the week-end. The high Sunday was 63 and Saturday 58 The average the past 48 hours was 45.5, or 10 degrees below normal.

The weatherman, however, predicted it would be slightly warmer tomorrow. The forecast said it would be fair and continued cool tonight with frost in exposed places. Tuesday fair and slightly warmer.

Farmers reported crops generally in average or better than average condition.

Unusually warm April weather, it was said, gave crops a rapid start and most of them held the gains despite cold weather later in the month.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Saturday's North Central Ohio league track meet at Stadium field may have been an artistic success — it was run off in the record-breaking time of an hour and a half—but it was far from a financial success.

The take at the gate amounted to exactly $4.68 on admission prices of two bits and a dime for kids. Where the eight cents came from hasn't been explained.

The meet, it seems, is the sports year's prize orphan. None of the cities in the N. C. O. league wanted it, and Mansfield, kicked out of the loop several years ago, didn't go for the meet either. At least not at the gate.

Manager Doc Daugherty of the Mansfield Provident Loans counted yesterday's collection of $14.58 a financial success for the softball game at Johns park.

"That sets a new record by 58 cents for collections while I've been manager," grinned Doc, but Ev Jocha recalls the time, before Doc joined the club, when 22 bucks were dropped in the caps of the girls' club.

* * *

Moaning low on the Provident bench was Fran Knapp, star twirler. "The Bride Takes a Ride may be a fine song title," she admitted, "but from now on, when it's on a charley horse, you can include me out."

* * *

I'm letting Oscar Ruhl contribute the rest of today's column, and when you've read the bits of chatter he's picked up on the Braves you'll probably agree that the column should have led off with his contribution, rather than winding up with it.

Chuck Byers, New Oxford Pa., right-hander, may be taking orders from Uncle Sam instead of Alex Clowson before many more months roll around. Chuck has just received his draft questionnaire.

Pity the thief of a glove if he ever stumbles into Dick Morse. The third sacker just planked down $8.50 for a new mitt, only to have it stolen before he could use it. . . . Grafton Moore, who is battling Dick for the hot corner job, can hardly be labeled a rookie. He played 56 games with Fargo-Moorhead in the Northern league last summer.

According to Chief Alex, it's going to take a pretty good ball player to displace Second Baseman Bob TeStruth. His mates are still talking about the fine stop and throw he made on Bellville "Tick" Hamilton's grounder in the seventh frame Saturday to save the no-hitter.

* *

Catcher Ed Muntryn has acquired the nickname of "Nails" . . . Mansfield's opening game lineup against Lima Wednesday was more in doubt than ever today. The Braves hospital list included what Clowson described as three regulars. McGrath suffered a badly cut right hand in the fifth frame of yesterday's game when a bat broke in his hand. TeStruth was unable to use his throwing hand after yesterday's infield practice when a blood blister bursted and Byers nursed a bruised left wrist the result of a line drive striking him while pitching in batting practice.

Indians Split With Brownies

League Leaders Fail To Play Like Champs.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The league-leading Indians were not in the best of spirits today as they stopped en route to New York to open a 10-game eastern trip.

Dividing a double-header in St. Louis yesterday gave the Redskins only an even split in four games with the lowly Browns and it's easy to figure that playing .500 ball against the tail-enders won't bring a pennant.

Cleveland won the opener of the twin bill, 7-5, behind the spotty pitching of Jim Bagby and Harry Eisenstat and lost the nightcap, 6-5, when the Browns solved the offerings of Joe Heving in the 10th inning.

* * *

The cheerful note of the holiday was the fact that Bob Feller and Mel Harder are well rested and set to face the Yankees After two tussles with the New Yorkers, the Indians will move into Boston.

The victory over St. Louis was the first of the year for Bagby. He pitched good ball during the early part of the game, but weakened in the sixth and Eisenstat finally was called in from the bullpen in the seventh.

Two St. Louis runs in the ninth had Eisenstat worried, but he ended up by getting the dangerous Rip Radcliff on a grounder to Ray Mack.

* * *

Homers by Hal Trosky and Mack and Jeff Heath's double and two singles meanwhile manufactured more than half of the Tribe's runs.

* * *

Rookie Cal Dorsett made his first start of the season in the second game, pitching impressive ball for four innings. St. Louis rallied in the fifth and Fireman Clint Brown was rushed into the fray. He in turn allowed the Browns to tie the score in the ninth causing Manager Roger Peckinpaugh to call on the usually reliable Heving.

This time Joe didn't have his stuff and Johnny Lucadello tripled and Alan Strange singled for the winning run.

While the Brooklyn Dodgers two full games out front in the National League head west today, and the Cleveland Indians, pacing the American League by three, are bound for their first swing through the east, the New York Yankees finish up their first road trip in Boston.

This temporarily stationary position making them fit subjects for study, it develops that the Yanks, lo and behold, are in fourth place.

But the figures back of the Yankees' performance for the season's first four weeks leave little doubt why their status is so humble. They have, at present, only two regulars batting over .300 (Bill Dickey, .371, and Joe DiMaggio, .320 and, what is more important, have yet to get a winning pitching job from one of their highly-touted rookies.

They plumbed the season's low yesterday, when the Boston Red Sox dropped them out of second place with a 13-5 shellacking.

Spud Chandler started the game his third, and for the third time finished it in the showers. Steve Peck Charlie Stanceu and Norm Branch followed him to the mound, which might just as well have been in front of a firing squad.

Of the 14 contests the Yanks have won three regulars—Marius Russo, Red Ruffing and Lefty Gomez—have accounted for nine. Ernie Bonham a regular after he joined the club last August, has turned in three more.

A 10-inning battle saw the Washington Senators bow to the Philadelphia Athletics 10-8.

In Chicago, 40-year-old Ted Lyons pitched a seven-hitter to best the Detroit Tigers and Tommy Bridges, 2-1.

The Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals kept their two-game distance at the head of the National League parade. Brooklyn by shading the Phillies 6-5, and the Redbirds with a 7-4 conquest of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Another nice job of relief pitching three-hit ball for eight innings by lanky southpaw Cliff Melton, gave the New York Giants an 8-3 decision over the Boston Braves.

For the Chicago Cubs, the man of the day was Claude Passeau. He shackled the Cincinnati Reds for a 9-1 verdict.

Double-A Race Remains Close

(By Associated Press)

Twenty-five days of battling in the American Association has left the field almost as closely bunched as when the baseball season started.

Kansas City, seeking its third straight place, is in first place, but only two games ahead of Columbus in fourth.

The Louisville Colonels advanced to within a half game of the Blues and sent Minneapolis into third with 5-4 and 4-2 decisions over the Millers yesterday.

Murry Dickson pitched the Redbirds to an 8-1 victory over Milwaukee in the opener and they took the nightcap, 5-3.

Kansas City and Toledo split a pair. The Blues copped the opener, 5-1, but bowed in the nightcap, 5-2.

Indianapolis defeated St. Paul, 7-6, but lost out in the second game, 3-0.

Providents See Victory Ride Off On Charley Horse

The one weak spot in the defensive armor of Mansfield's state champion Provident Loans, reserve pitching, bobbed up yesterday to rob the girls' softball club of a sure and easy victory over Youngstown's Lipscher Senators at Johns Park.

* * *

The Providents lost their Sunday track meet 14 to 16, but, given Fran Knapp's stellar twirling over the nine-inning route, their 14 runs would have been plenty.

But the ball game rode out on a charley horse that put Fran out of action in the fifth frame, and that was the whole story. Florence Casper and LaVonna Schaefer who succeeded the Provident bride on the hill lacked the experience necessary to turn back such a heavy-slugging crew as the Youngstown district champs.

Youngstown got away to a three run lead in the first inning aided by some shaky fielding by the Providents, but Mansfield came back in the same frame with six markers. Two runs for Youngstown in the second were evened up by the Providents in the fourth.

But although the Providents were leading at the end of the fourth 8 to 5, they already had lost the ball game in the third when Fran Knapp pulled up with her charley horse while at bat. She pitched the fourth inning but was unable to continue farther.

It was a bad day for pitchers, and while Mary Williams went the route for Youngstown she spent much of the time watching long hits sail over the heads of the Lipscher gardeners.

Bucky Holda and Ev Jocha each tagged the apple for home run drives, and Bucky crashed through with a pair of triples to round out an afternoon of super-slugging. Donna Schuster also contributed a triple to the Provident attack.

* * *

Next Sunday night the Providents open their road season at Elyria, meeting the strong North Ridgeville club.

BARNES CHALLENGERS BEAT COAL TEAM

Barnes Challengers scored a 12 to 8 victory over the N. & W. Coal Service softballers in a clash at Prospect Park yesterday.

The Coalmen starting off with a 6 to 0 lead in the first inning, showed weakness in their defense as the Challengers made three runs in the second inning and two in the third.

A seven run rally clinched the game for the Challengers in the fifth inning. Weinbrenner pitched for the Barnes Challengers and Brown for the N. & W. Coal Service.

Whirler May Lose Jockey

Arcaro Has Another Date For Next Big Race.

NEW YORK —(AP)— A new worry popped up today for "whacky" Whirlaway and his hopes for the precious triple crown of racing.

As Belmont opened its spring meeting, it was learned that the "brains" of the little Kentucky cannonball might not be in the saddle June 7 when the colt goes after the third jewel in the crown, in the Belmont stakes.

* * *

Although no definite yes or no was forthcoming, it was disclosed Mrs. Payne Whitney has a couple of colts in her barn that she expects to have ready for the mile-and-a-half grind which annually tops off the Kentucky Derby and Preakness for three-year-olds. If she does, naturally she'll have her contract rider, Eddie Arcaro, aboard her chief hope.

In that case, the little Italian from the Blue Grass, generally regarded as the No. 1 jockey in the business, would be riding to beat the colt he rode to triumph in the Derby and Preakness.

* * *

Of course, the way Whirly waltzed off with the Derby by eight lengths and followed it up by leaving the rest of the field five lengths behind Saturday in the Preakness is no guarantee he'll miss Eddie enough to lose the Belmont.

TEAM PRACTICES

The Mansfield Athletic Supply softball team will hold a practice at 6 p. m. at the Maple Lake diamond on Wednesday, and has a tentative game scheduled with the N. & W. Coal team for Thursday night. Manager John Burns requests the following players to be present: Robert Meeker, Don Rose, Adam Brandt, Vic Phitzenmayer, Virgil Shaffer, Dave Shelley, Noel Morgan, Bill Black, Dave Prion, Ray Bush.

Braves Swamp Ontario Club In Sunday Contest

Ohio State Leaguers Pound Apple For 18 Hits in 18 to 3 Win

WITH only two days separating the Braves from the inaugural game of the Ohio State league season, Chief Alex Clowson confirmed a general belief out at the Fairground yesterday that Mansfield's entry in the Class D circuit is ready.

The Braves concluded their week-end exhibition schedule with a one-sided 18 to 3 victory over the Ontario Independents at the Fairground yesterday.

Tonight and tomorrow night, the Braves will stage routine drills under the mazdas, starting at 8 o'clock each night. Then on Wednesday night at 8 p. m., the Mansfield warriors will pry off the championship lid in a tussle with the Lima Pandas at the Fairground.

* * *

Pilot Clowson was well pleased with yesterday's setto because the Braves showed real power on the attack the first time this season.

Facing a mighty fine curve ball artist in Petey Beer, Mansfield sandlot ace, in the opening innings and Durable Dean Dawson in the closing frames, the Braves smacked the ball hard and often to vanquish the semi-pro club.

In defeating the Ontario aggregation, the Braves pounded out a total of 18 hits, which included one home run, a pair of triples and six doubles.

* * *

The No. 1 hitsmith of the afternoon was Bill Salem, a left field candidate, who blasted out a home run and a pair of singles. Bill was personally responsible for pushing five teammates across the plate and he tallied three more himself.

* * *

Catcher Ed Mutryn also had his willow singing a song of hits in yesterday's practice tilt, collecting a brace of doubles and a single.

Other Braves who fattened their training camp stick averages were Bill McGrath, Grafton Moore, Dick Morse and Elmer Sielski. Each of these garnered a pair of bingles; Morse's total being two two-baggers.

Although Ontario offered the Braves more competition than did the Bellville combine, held hitless in nine innings Saturday, the men of Mansfield never trailed after taking a 2 to 1 lead at the end of the first stanza.

The Braves' big inning was the fifth in which they helped themselves to seven runs. Fourteen of the Braves' redskins' 18 runs were tallied in the final four frames.

* * *

The tricky Beer turned in a fine pitching performance until he was forced to retire. He yielded six straight hits before he left the hillock in favor of Dawson in the fifth with none out.

* * *

Clowson used three twirlers on the mound for the Braves, starting with Harold Robinson, following with Rudy Okleson and finishing with Fred Wollpert.

Wollpert, late of the Cleveland Rosenblums, was the more impressive of the three, giving up only

Dispute On Bout Rages

Writer Says Fight Score Should Be Cleared Up.

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The argument rages on today over that Ken Overlin-Billy Soose thing, and all three of your correspondent's readers have written in to say they would like to have a crystal clear explanation of why it is so difficult to decide who won a prize fight. So would I.

* * *

The situation is so serious that the New York boxing commission may take action although it is doubtful that the decision will be reversed.

* * *

Soose won the middleweight championship from Overlin Friday night because the referee and two judges agreed he had taken a majority of the 15 rounds. But no two of the three officials agreed on the precise rounds each fighter won. Take the seventh round, for instance. Referee Arthur Donovan thought Overlin won it; Judge Bill Healy thought it was even; Judge Marty Monroe thought Soose won it. The three officials are men of experience and integrity, so you can throw out any talk about a fix being in.

An overwhelming majority of the newspapermen at the ringside thought Overlin won and so did most of the crowd.

To start with, boxing is probably the most inexact of sports. Golf is the most exact—either the ball drops into the cup or it doesn't and anybody can take a look and tell. But when you start out to Judge between two fighters what standard are you going to use?

How many light left jabs on the nose does it take to equalize a stiff right to the jaw? How much credit do you give a man for what is known as forcing the fight—that is, being the aggressor?

Those questions are only part of the trouble that a man lets himself in for when he sits down to be a judge.

Fighters learn tricks designed to influence judges. One of the most common is to start a flurry of punching 30 seconds before the round ends in the hope that the judges will forget what has happened in the previous two minutes and a half. Overlin did that Friday night.

Sitting on opposite sides of the ring, the judges never can see punches from the same angle. Nor can the referee, although he is the best qualified man to judge what's going on because he is on top of the action all the time. The wonder of it is that the officials agree as often as they do when fights are as close as the one between Soose and Overlin.

Fancy Dans And Dollies Boost Skating Popularity

By DOUGLAS DIES
(AP Feature Service Writer)

CLEVELAND — The popularity of roller skating has gone up and down and up faster than an express elevator.

Right now roller skating is up on the top floor.

In the last few years the pastime has surged forward in a revival which paints the vogue of the "Gay Nineties" a sickly mauve, according to old timers who cut "Jackson Haines' brackets" in 1900.

* * *

Today there are 3,500 rinks scattered across the nation, and 5,000-000 regular rink patrons out of an estimated 20,000,000 roller enthusiasts.

* * *

Entries in the U. S. Amateur championships, held here recently, ranged from the six-year-old junior partners, Irene Botnar and Gilbert R. White, from Union, N. J., to Raymond Herzog, 36, of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Prize Winners, Too.

These were not freak entries. Irene and Gilbert won the first prize in the New Jersey junior dance contest for 1941, and Herzog has won the Utah Senior men's figure skating championship for the last three years.

Between there age extremes flashes a beaming collection of speed-demon men and caper-cutting "lovelies."

Melva Block, 16, who out-graced two fellow Detroiters to win the senior ladies' figure skating championships, quit high school so she could devote all her afternoons to practicing spread-eagle and salchow jumps, fancy spins and turns. Miss Block stands five feet three, weighs 120 pounds, has jet hair, dark eyes, and is Irish-American.

Dolly Durkin, 23-year-old secretary from Long Island, N. Y., who has an imposing list of state and national titles in the senior dance division, rejects modeling offers for fear they might jeopardize her amateur standing.

"My fiancee and I started to go ice skating one night about two years ago," she explained, "and found a hockey game at the rink. We decided to go to the roller rink, and I put on the skates for the first time. I loved it. Now I go every night and all day Sunday."

Dolly's dancing partner, Gordon Finigan, 21, is the only person with whom she ever dance-skates. But she never dates him.

* * *

Ice and roller routines are so similar that the same officials judge both sports by the same rules, gauging ability by grace and control of inner and outer edges or wheels, whichever the case may be. Speed champions in one sport frequently shine in the other.

Ken Bartholomew, 21, of Minneapolis, stars at both. He holds ice speed titles in the United States and North American divisions, and his brother, Earl, plays ice hockey for the Cleveland Barons.

two hits in the final four innings.

Robison, the starting pitcher, encountered more than his share of trouble, and he was forced to leave the ball game in the third with two out, Okleson coming to his rescue.

Following the ball game, Robison was one of three Braves handed the "pink slip." The other two were Outfielder Elmer Sielski and Catcher Steve Bielek. This reduction in the squad leaves Clowson with eight pitchers, two catchers, five infielders and four outfielders. To get down to mid-season playing limit, Clowson must eliminate only four more candidates.

The highlight of yesterday's exhibition tilt was Salem's home run over the centerfield wall in the seventh with two occupying the sacks.

League Looks For Big Year

Findlay and Tiffin Threaten Limarule.

LIMA—(AP)—With lots of new faces and a new operating policy, Ohio's professional baseball "baby," the six-club Ohio State league, opens Wednesday a season that appears likely to be its most successful.

* * *

Only Findlay and Tiffin have any sort of a returning squad of veterans, the other teams losing players to class C circuits clubs, the draft and rushed industries. And Findlay and Tiffin are expected to set the pace in the campaign to unseat Lima, which walked off with the 1940 pennant by 13½ games.

In an effort to increase spectator interest, the class D league shifted from a 130-game single campaign with Shaughnessy playoff to a split season of 55 games each. The first half will end July 2, and the second half will run from July 4 to Sept. 1.

The veteran Grover Hartley will be back at Findlay as the only returning manager, while James (Chappy) Geygan will direct the Fremont club after a year's absence. Other manager-newcomers are Otis Brannan at Lima, Len Ellison at Fostoria, Alex Clowson at Mansfield and Charles Le Crone at Tiffin.

Brannan played second base for the St. Louis Browns in 1928-29 and Clowson formerly starred at Ohio State university. Le Crone moved from Tiffin's business office to the managership.

Fostoria and Fremont, which wound up last season battling for the cellar, will have entirely new teams this year. Mansfield is counting on help from the parent Cleveland Indians.

Here's how the teams will line up Wednesday night's openers: Lima at Mansfield, Fostoria at Findlay and Fremont at Tiffin.

Tigers Release Dick Bartell

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Dick Bartell, shortstop for the Detroit Tigers and four other major league teams during the past 14 years, joined the ranks of the job-hunters today.

Bartell, 33, was given his outright release by the Tigers at the close of yesterday's game against the White Sox. He was waived out of the National league in 1939.

Although he was credited with a major part in Detroit's 1940 pennant-winning campaign, Bartell had made only two hits out of a dozen times at bat in the five games he played this year. He batted .233 in 1940.

Gehringer Nearly Done

Charley Says He Expects To Retire Next Year.

By EARL HILLIGAN

CHICAGO—(AP)—Charley Gehringer was 38 yesterday—a birthday he believes will be his last as an all-time star performer in baseball's big show and the last milepost of a brilliant career which the great Ty Cobb did not foresee —and almost blocked.

"I'm getting too old," smiled the Detroit Tiger veteran, one of the greatest second basemen the game ever produced and long known among players as "the ball players' ball-player."

"It's a day-to-day business with me now and I think this will be my last year—if I can get through it. But time is something you can't do much about."

This is "Silent Charley's" 17th season with the Tigers, his only major league affiliation. One of the great "mechanical-marvels" of baseball's record book, he has patrolled second base for Detroit as a regular since 1927. He's been slowing down steadily the past few seasons, but in his prime he was one of the sport's defensive wizards who performed with the easy, effortless style of a robot.

But of him they always said—"he lacks color"—and none other than the immortal Cobb once thought that lack would doom him forever to the minors.

"Cobb liked my ball playing," said the one-time farm boy from Fowlerville, Mich., "but he didn't think I had enough color, fight and ginger, as he called it. He was going to start me in 1926 but I wouldn't raise the devil, holler and carry on enough for him. So he started Frank O'Rourke, but I was lucky. O'Rourke got measles and I got the job. Next year, Manager George Moriarty obtained Marty McManus and I again was out of luck. But Marty got spiked after a month and from then on I played about 600 straight games before going out."

Gehringer, American league batting champion and most valuable player in 1937, recalls a few highlights of a career which saw him elected to six all-star teams and compile a .326 major league batting mark up to this season.

"I was pleased (that's as emphatic as the reticent Charley puts anything) when I got four hits several years ago the day a bunch came down from Fowlerville," he said. "Another time, in 1939, I hit for the cycle (a single, double, triple and home run.)"

Down through the years has come the myth of how Cobb saw Gehringer play at the Fowlerville fairgrounds and signed him at once. It isn't so. He was signed, sight unseen, after a friend of Bobby Veach had recommended him in glowing terms to the old time Tiger star. He played with London (Michigan-Ontario league) and Toronto, International league, before joining the Tigers late in 1925 to start his amazing career.

Charley won't have a financial worry when he finally hangs up his glove for good. A shrewd businessman, he now has a going manufacturers' agency which sells auto products.

ISSUES MANAGE TO EDGE HIGHER ON MART TODAY

Some Opposition Develops To Extension of Saturday's Rally.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Attempts to extend Saturday's rally met with a little opposition in today's stock market but many issues managed to edge a bit higher.

Early resistance was shown by Bethlehem Steel, American Telephone, Texas Corp., Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin and American Smelting.

Continued forward leanings in the commodity department helped speculative sentiment. Bonds were a shade mixed.

Among market props were the figures of the American Bureau of Shipping disclosing total ships building or ordered in American yards as of May 1 numbered 800 against 542 at the beginning of the month. This was an increase of more than 2,000,000 gross tons.

Notice was taken on the survey of the magazine "Steel," which said that imposition of complete priorities in this industry was near with the liklihood that metal available for private consumers would soon reach the vanishing point.

STRIKE THREATS AT NAVY YARDS, G. M. CRITICAL

Defense Mediation Board Calls Adjournment in Talks; AFL Acts In Pacific Tie-up.

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — Throwing up picket lines, nineteen hundred AFL and CIO machinists went on strike today at eleven San Francisco bay region shipyards, tieing up production on $500,000,000 defense contracts. The strikers demanded wage increases.

(By Associated Press)

Strike threats in plants of the General Motors Corporation and in the Boston navy yard reached the critical point today and the American Federation of Labor threw its influence against a Pacific coast walkout of 1,700 AFL and CIO shipyard machinists.

Members of a national defense mediation board panel attempting to head off a strike in 60 General Motors plants which have $700,000,000 of defense contracts adjourned early yesterday, after nine days of negotiations with CIO leaders and company representatives.

Chiefs of the union, the United Automobile Workers, flew back to Detroit to consider whether to call a walkout. But Chairman W. H. Davis of the board panel said negotiations under its direction would resume tomorrow and that "there is no indication of any purpose not to continue production."

The UAW wants a new contract providing for a wage increase of ten cents an hour. The company has offered at least two cents an hour for all workers and three to five cents for certain skilled craftsmen. The present wage rate varies with the type of work, but company officials said the average was slightly over $1.00.

AFL's building construction trades council said 925 members would not report today at the Boston navy yard, where $30,000,000 of defense building is underway, in protest against the employment of 1,100 WPA workers. Secretary-Treasurer E. A. Johnson said the union would not go back to work until it was agreed that union labor would handle all new construction "from start to finish."

Meanwhile William Green, president of the AFL, asserted in Paterson, N. J., yesterday that a walkout of union machinists in San Francisco shipyards was an "outlawed strike" and that the AFL was "appealing to the unions there to rescind their strike action."

The walkout involves defense contracts estimated by the workers at $500,000,000. Green said it violated a union - management agreement prohibiting either strikes or walkouts. The strikers want $1.15 an hour instead of $1.12, plus continuance of double pay for overtime. Union leaders in San Francisco said their picket lines would keep 15,000 to 20,000 men away from work.

Zimmerman Urges Candidates For Air Corps Course To Get Set For Tests.

Only eight of the 50 Richland county youths applying for entrance to a U. S. Air corps "refresher" school to be held in Mansfield reported for examination today.

Major James L. Zimmerman, chairman of a five-member Flying Cadets board, here to conduct examinations through Wednesday, urged all applicants to communicate with the Chamber of Commerce, giving names and telephone numbers, to allow the board to plan an examination schedule.

Major Zimmerman asked youths finding the Chamber office closed to telephone him at his home at Poplar 4998.

The board is conducting physical examinations for youths who have applied for entrance in the training school. The examinations are being conducted in the Mansfield armory.

The school, which will be held two nights a week from May 19 through mid-August, will be one of several in Ohio for training officer pilots. Citizens from 20 to 27 in good physical condition are eligible.

Applicants examined today include: Lewis L. Zimmerman, Carl F. Leininger, Warren J. Heiner, Robert T. Fink, Peter Merschdorf, Robert T. Murphy, James H. Mitchell and Edward J. Betz, all of the Mansfield area.
